OBREGON ADMITS MEXICO ATTACKED U. S. CAVALRY

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE IN HOTEL

Dinner Guests at the Essex Startled When Man in Lobby Shoots Himself in the Head

A man identified as Martin Cornelissin, address unknown, shot himself in the head, inflicting a probably fatal wound, in the lobby of the Hotel Essex today.

He was taken to the City Hospital in an ambulance, where it was stated that he was in a critical condition.

The shooting took place at a time when the adjacent dining room was crowded with patrons, many of them women, who were greatly excited by the occurrence.

According to the police, Cornelissin, who is about thirty-five years old, walked into the lobby carrying a grip and apparently had just come from the South Station. He walked over to a chair in front of the hotel desk, seated himself and placed the grip on the floor.

No one paid any particular attention to the man, who gazed speculatively about the office for a few moments and then calmly reaching into a hip pocket produced a revolver. A few startled onlookers witnessed the action, but before they could make an outcry Cornelissin had placed the muzzle of the gun at his right ear and pulled the trigger.

DESTROYER FANNING ORDERED TO MEXICO

Eastport, Me., June 22.—The torpedo boat destroyer Fanning, which arrived here expecting to remain a week, was today ordered to Tampico, Mexico. The destroyer Spaulding, and twenty others, are expected tomorrow morning, some of which will also be sent to Mexican waters. I Company, Second Regiment, N. G. S. M., left here this morning for the Augusta State Camp Grounds to join the other militia detachments mobilized there.

EXCUSES SOLDIER UP FOR CONTEMPT

Worcester, June 22.—When told the reason Thomas Barry did not answer to a contempt charge for failure to support his wife was that he was serving in the militia, Judge Forbes of the Probate Court today continued the young man's case indefinitely, and added: "I'd do anything for a man who goes away to fight for his country."

WILSON WAITS FOR PERSHING REPORT

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, June 22.—"We have formulated no plans and will take no action in Mexico on the present information available here. All of the facts available to date regarding the battle at Carrizal are from Mexican sources. We have asked General Funston to make every effort to get a full and complete report from General Pershing. Until it comes we can do nothing. There will be no special Cabinet meeting today and President Wilson has no immediate intention of going before Congress."

Secretary of War Baker, following a 45-minute conference with President Wilson today, summed up the Mexican situation in the above statement. He made it very plain that there will be no haste in deciding on a course of action. But at the same time he said that all of the National Guard now being mobilized will be rushed to the border as soon as the various units are completely equipped.

While every official in Washington from the President down seemed convinced that war with Carranza cannot be avoided, in view of the acceptance of responsibility for the attack upon the Americans at Carrizal by General Obregon, Carranza's war minister, there is a strong feeling in official circles that, if possible responsibility for declaring war should be placed on Carranza.

Captain Mason Dead.

Paris, June 22.—Captain Frank H. Mason, former American consul-general, is dead here today. He was seventy-eight years old and had been thirty-three years in the consular service.

2,000 MORE MEN WANTED, SAYS COLE

Adjutant-General Charles H. Cole announced today that 2,200 men are needed to raise the Massachusetts detachment to its full war strength.

The four infantry regiments at South Framingham are 2,000 men short of the numerical strength demanded by Washington.

"We have got enough major-generals and colonels," said General Cole, as he looked over a list of former militia officers who have volunteered their services, "and what we need is privates. If these men want to serve the State and nation they should go at once to the nearest army post and enlist as privates."

The Massachusetts quota will comprise 8,000 men, when recruited to the full war strength. General Cole said that the detachment now numbers nearly 7,000, of whom 2,000 are recruits. The 7,000 will be under canvas tomorrow night at South Framingham.

General Cole said that it will be unnecessary for the members of the militia to undergo further physical examination to be taken into the service of Uncle Sam. The physical requirements for membership in the State militia are just as high as the demands of the Federal government. But the "rookies" must pass the physical test.

General Cole said it will be impossible to grant the request of Lieutenant-General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., retired, that his son, Lieutenant Sherman Miles, U. S. A., be given a field command in the Massachusetts detachment. The quota of officers is complete.

"As a member o fthe Massachusetts military, I desire to express my appreciation of the service rendered yesterday by Mayor Curley," said General Cole. "The Mayor has been very much interested in the situation and he gave a fine example of public spiritedness that all others might well emulate."

NEARLY 6,000 AT CAMP EAGER FOR SERVICE

By BERT FORD.

State Militia Camp, Framingham, June 22.—Expectation of war received an extra impetus today when official notice came from Washington to Colonel Benumont B. Buck, assistant mustering officer of the War Department, to go ahead with recruiting.

Recruiting will begin tomorrow, just as soon as new blanks and special instructions, due from Washington, arrive here by mail.

Three-mile hikes into the country and drills on the camp ground were held today.

The camp was officially named today "Camp Whitney," for the late Brigadier-General Josphanus Whitney, who was also chief of the State police.

The signal corps set up wireless and telephone instruments, with a particular view of getting into wireless communication with the big government wireless station at Arlington, Va.

There is no sickness in camp.

Five men of the Second Regiment were discarded today for physical deficiency.

There is a grand total in camp now of 5,762 men. The regimental count is as follows:

Ninth—43 officers, 985 men, 331 recruits, total 1,164.

Eighth—50 officers, 1,122 men, 255 recruits, total 1,428.

Fifth—51 officers, 903 men, 186 recruits, total 1,140.

Second—53 officers, 927 men, 370 recruits, total 1,350.

This makes an infantry total of

12 U. S. SOLDIERS KILLED BY ORDER OF CARRANZA'S WAR CHIEF

Washington, June 22.—President Wilson and the War Department today received unofficial announcement of General Obregon's official statement that the attack on General Pershing's men at Carrizal yesterday was under his and Carranza's office.

It is admitted that this is the most serious development of the Mexican situation that has yet occurred and that Obregon's admission makes the attack an act of war. Whether the Washington administration will accept the challenge depends upon reports from General Pershing, which the President is awaiting. Secretary Baker announced, after a conference with the President, that nothing would be done until this report is received.

12 Americans Killed in Battle at Carrizal

El Paso, Tex., June 22.—Twelve Americans and fourteen Mexicans were killed in the battle of Carrizal, according to an official statement issued at the Carranzista consulate here today. It stated that the commander of the American detachment was among those killed.

Scott to Order Militia to Border Before Night

Washington, June 22.—Orders to report immediately the completion of mobilization were sent to all commanding officers of National Guard divisions by General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff, at nine o'clock this morning.

General Scott said that this was preliminary to ordering all units that were ready to take the field immediately to proceed to the border and report to General Funston.

General Scott said on arriving at his office from Fort Myer, that he expected a large proportion of the National Guard would be enroute to San Antonio or any threatened points before nightfall.

The quartermaster's department is arranging transportation.

Major-General Funston today wired to the War Department an urgent request to send State troops to the border as rapidly as possible. He is particularly desirous that all available cavalry be furnished immediately in order that the regular cavalry regiments may be sent to reinforce General Pershing.

The militia of California, Missouri and Kansas, already ordered to the border, will not increase the cavalry forces now available to any great extent, and Funston hopes that the crack cavalry regiments of Illinois, Pennsylvania, New York and Ohio will be on their way southward soon.

The American commander believes that the Carrizal conflict is only the first of a series of clashes and Fort Sam Houston buzzed with activity today, dispatches said. Arms, ammunition and supplies of all kinds were hurried southward by every train. Preparations are under way there for the influx of militia forces that will begin within four days. The State forces are to be assigned from San Antonio.

Funston said today that he had everything along the border in readiness for any eventuality, but declared he would take no further steps until he had received an official American version of the Carrizal affair.

CRUISER DAMAGED.

Rear-Admiral Winslow, commander of the Pacific fleet, today reported to the Navy Department that seventy more Americans had gone aboard the Cleveland at Guaymas and that "conditions are more threatening." He said the Carranza military authorities had moved all military equipment, including hospital supplies, from Guaymas back into the interior to Empalme, a railroad centre.

There was no confirmation of the report that Japanese warships were in the Gulf of California. Admiral Winslow said the cruiser Cleveland, en route to the Mexican coast, damaged her rudder and had to put into San Diego, Cal., for repairs. He forwarded a complete report from Commander Kavanagh of the Annapolis, concerning the clash several days ago at Guaymas between Carranza soldiers and American marines.

MEXICANS STARTED FIGHT.

This report, which was immediately turned over to the State Department, said there were only five Americans in the boat that was fired upon by the Carranzistas. Commander Kavanagh denied that "a drunken Japanese" started the fighting, as was claimed by the official account of the Mexican embassy here.

He said the Carranza soldiers started the firing.

Full responsibility for the attack upon American soldiers at Carrizal was assumed by Minister of War Obregon in the official statement which he issued at the War Department at Mexico City today. This says that the Americans were trying to occupy the railway station at Carrizal. General Carranza has called a full meeting of the Cabinet for this afternoon. At this General Obregon will make a complete report on the situation. The statement issued by General Obregon follows:

The ministry under my charge by the first chief's orders instructed General Jacinto Trevino on June 18 that if General Pershing's forces, forming the punitive expedition which penetrated our national territory after the Columbus incident, moved southward, eastward or westward from where they were they should be attacked.

Early this morning (Wednesday) an American force tried to occupy the station of Carrizal on the Mexican Central Railway.

General Trevino ordered it to be attacked. The fight that resulted is described in official reports rendered to this ministry by General Trevino as follows:

"June 21, 1916.

"Headquarters, Chihuahua City.

"To Minister of War and Navy General Alvaro Obregon

PERSHING THREATENS TO ATTACK TREVINO.

El Paso, Tex., June 22.—According to an unconfirmed report received here this afternoon, Brigadier-General John J. Pershing with 3,000 men has arrived at a point near Villa Ahumada and has sent an ultimatum to General Trevino, Mexican commander, threatening to attack the Mexican army concentrated at Villa Ahumada unless the troops captured in the battle near there yesterday are given up.

"General Francisco Gonzales reported to me last night from Ciudad Juarez that American forces were arriving at Santo Domingo. Therefore, I ordered they be attacked today, and I am informed the fight began at 8 o'clock this morning in Carrizal. I have just been informed that the American forces were repulsed.

"General Felix Gomez was seriously wounded. He commanded our forces. We have others killed and wounded.

"Seven Americans were taken prisoners, and just now I received another message reporting the death of General Gomez. I am giving the necessary orders.

"JACINTO B. TREVINO,
"General-in-Chief."

Another message quickly following this read as follows:

"Headquarters, Chihuahua City.
"To General Alvaro Obregon: Urgent:

"I have just been informed from Ciudad Juarez that when the forces were reorganized it turned out that seventeen Americans were captured, not seven, as stated in the foregoing report. The American's interpreter was captured. He confessed that the American leader was responsible for the conflict. I have ordered that the prisoners be brought here.

"Respectfully,
"JACINTO B. TREVINO,
"General-in-Chief."

U. S. TROOPS ON BORDER READY FOR WORD TO GO INTO BATTLE

By WALLACE E. SMITH,
Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

El Paso, Tex., June 22.—Infantry, cavalry and artillery concentrated on both sides of the Rio Grande today awaited the order of their commanders that would send them into battle.

On the American side the belief prevailed that if the report of Mexican treachery in yesterday's fighting near Carrizal was confirmed United States troops would advance on Juarez before nightfall, take the historic Mexican town and continue their march through the desert to Chihuahua City to rescue the Americans taken prisoners in the Carrizal conflict.

According to unofficial advices received here the Mexican have hanged the seven soldiers of the Tenth Cavalry captured at Carrizal.

The same report asserted that the Mexicans after carrying a flag of truce, opened fire upon the United States soldiers, causing heavy casualties.

From the yellow banks of the river, where opposing machine guns almost rubbed noses across the international line, bridge to the field guns back of El Paso the rugged soldiers of Carranza and the trim campaigners of the United States army were ready for instant action today.

It was as if an enormous conflagration would send a roaring flame along the border. The American troops, enraged by the story of barbaric treachery at Carrizal, were eager to avenge their fallen comrades of the Tenth Cavalry.

Mexicans, jubilant over the reports of victory that were posted in the Juarez plaza, were intoxicated with the visions of another triumph and the possibility of attacking El Paso.

Early today two battalions of the Seventh Infantry began throwing up sand bag redoubts along the American bank of the river. Mounted guards patrolled the American side. Machine gun crews slept beside their guns in the camps at strategical points along the twisted course of the river. In the streets of Juarez Carranzista cavalry was massed all night. Six hundred Mexican troops were marched east along the river before sunrise. On the west bank a similar force tramped to take positions. In the railway yards five trains were held with full steam up under orders of General Francisco Gonzales, commander at Juarez.

MEXICANS CONFIDENT.

The confidence of the Carranza officers and men was great. There was no disguising the swagger in their manner as they discussed the Carrizal fighting. No matter what the method, they boasted that they had whipped the hated "Gringos."

This was especially marked in the actions of the leaders who are supposed to disguise what they feel. They took pains to convey to the American authorities news of the Carrizal battle.

There were those who saw in this action the result of General Trevino's arrogance in ordering General Pershing to move east, south or west. They saw in it a lancer for President Wilson's statement to Carranza that the caution of this threat will result in the gravest consequences."

Officers at Fort Bliss would not discuss in their official capacity the action that would follow Pershing's reported refusal report. But since last Friday none of them has been away from his command and all of them are ready for the order that has been so long deferred.

General George Bell, Jr., is coming at Fort Bliss, returned early in the day from a long inspection of the soldiers posted about the city.

"READY FOR ANYTHING."

"We're ready for anything," said General Bell. "I am awaiting orders from General Funston. I have forwarded to him what information I was able to gather of the Carrizal fighting. Now I can do nothing but wait."

Up to the time General Bell made this statement most of the information about the Carrizal incident had come from Mexican sources. These reports placed the American dead at between seventeen and forty, together with the capture of a large number of prisoners. They still placed the blame for the start of the fighting on the Americans. Incidentally they admitted heavy losses on the Mexican side.

Mexican reports located General Pershing himself at Colonia Dublan. They also asserted that his forces had seized Casas Grandes and Nuevas Casas Grandes after violent anti-American demonstrations and after both towns had been evacuated by their garrisons.

Fort Bliss officers think that the troopers of the Tenth Cavalry engaged at Carrizal were assigned by Pershing to run down a new bandit outfit. This, of course, would be a tacit answer to General Trevino's demand that Pershing's force go in no direction but north. The Carrizal would be Trevino's redemption of his pledge and would leave the next move up to General Pershing. Pershing has intimated rather strongly that his next move would be as convincing as it was harsh.

Perhaps, it was suggested early today, by this time he has a new force already on the way to Villa Ahumada, nine miles northeast of Carrizal, and ready to support the action that might come at Juarez.

Lured Into Trap by Flag of Truce, Says Bell

Washington, June 22.—President Wilson received after 11 o'clock last night a report from General Funston containing General Bell's account of the attack on a detachment of the Tenth Cavalry by Carranzistas at Carrizal.

General Bell reported that Americans were decoyed into a trap by a flag of truce used by the Mexicans. They were then fired upon by the Mexicans.

The War Department later issued the following dispatch from General Funston:

The following was received from General Bell at El Paso:

"Mexican Consul Garcia telephoned me 6 p. m. as follows:

"'There was a clash this morning at Carrizal, near Villa Ahumada, between Carranzistas and American troops, in which General Gomez and other Mexicans were killed. Number unknown. Number of Americans killed or wounded unknown. That General Gomez sent a captain with an order to American commander to go back, but American said he was going to Villa Ahumada and opened fire on Mexican captain, wounding him and killing a private who was with him. That Americans attacked General Gomez, but were driven back, and that several were taken prisoner. Prisoners were sent to Chihuahua.'

"Garcia says this is telephoned at the request of General Gonzales.

"An American who was on train today passing Villa Ahumada about 2:30 p. m. states that he saw several dead Mexicans put on the train, and among them was a dead Mexican general.

"There are also several Mexican wounded. He gathered from talk of Mexicans that fight was with American cavalry about five miles west and that the Americans were decoyed into a trap by using a flag of truce.

"That they were then fired on by machine guns and then had to retire. Copy furnished Pershing. Reports state our troops engaged were Tenth Cavalry.

"FUNSTON."

Pershing Seizes Two Mexican Towns

El Paso, Tex., June 22.—General John J. Pershing, commander of the expeditionary force, seized the Mexican towns of Nueva Casas Grandes and Casas Grandes at 6 o'clock last evening.

This information has been received by both military and State Department officials here.

The Mexican soldiers and civilians were disarmed. Both towns are under martial law. The main garrison at Casas Grandes was evacuated early in the day by the Mexican commander.

Twenty arrests were made in Casas Grandes of individuals who endeavored to incite anti-American demonstrations. Included in this number were several women, who harangued the populace, calling on all loyal Mexicans to resist the entrance of the Americans.

MEXICAN FORCE, 5,000 STRONG, ATTACKED FIVE CAVALRY TROOPS

By H. H. STANSBURY,
Staff Correspondent of International News Service.

El Paso, Tex., June 22.—A squadron of the Tenth United States Cavalry (colored) was ambushed by Carranza troops under General Felix Gomez at Carrizal, fifteen miles west of Villa Ahumada, early yesterday.

Reports received by General Bell indicated that there were six troops of cavalry in the American column. The attacking Mexicans under Gomez numbered approximately 5,000 men.

In the face of a machine gun fire the American troops dismounted, deployed and charged the Mexicans, who were shielded by a row of adobe houses.

Notwithstanding the advantage the Mexicans held in position, General Gomez was killed during the first few moments of fighting.

A number of Mexican soldiers were killed and a still larger number wounded.

The Mexicans say forty Americans were killed and seventeen taken prisoners, but these figures are from Mexican sources.

At a late hour last night no official report had been received through American channels.

THOUGHT CARRIZAL DESERTED.

The official Mexican statement announced that the seventeen American prisoners had been captured since yesterday afternoon with the Mexican wounded and taken to Chihuahua City. The body of General Gomez was taken to Chihuahua for burial.

The troops of General Gomez were those which the American squadron sighted Tuesday afternoon, as reported in these dispatches exclusively. During the night of Tuesday the Mexicans took refuge in the village of Carrizal, keeping under cover after daylight so as to hide any signs of life.

Carrizal was supposed to be deserted. It had not been occupied since the campaign of several years ago.

Yesterday morning when the march in the direction of Villa Ahumada was resumed the American commander is reported to have been surprised when the Mexicans had retired under cover of darkness.

FOUGHT AGAINST HEAVY ODDS.

The route followed by the Americans carried them within a few hundred yards of the outlying row of houses. The first that was known of the presence of Mexicans was when a volley of shots was fired into the ranks without warning. This sudden attack was followed by much gunfire.

The country about the town for twelve miles in every direction is an open desert prairie, with not even shrubbery that affords protection. Under these conditions the Americans charged again and again during a period of two hours' fighting, after which both sides stopped to look after their wounded.

This version of the engagement, which is believed to be the most accurate that has reached the border, was brought to El Paso by an American refugee who arrived in El Paso from Chihuahua.

This informant said:

"The train in which I made a trip to the border passed Villa Ahumada 'a few minutes after noon.

"I saw a number of American prisoners, but I could not count them as I did not dare leave the car.

"I saw the body of a Mexican officer and a number of wounded Mexican soldiers.

"I was told they were all, including Americans, to be taken to Chihuahua City.

"From what I could gather from the excited talk of the Mexicans, they trapped the Americans and killed or wounded a number of the troopers before they had a chance to defend themselves or offer resistance.

HELL MASSES HIS TROOPS.

The first report that the Mexican wounded were brought to Juarez has been shown by later developments to be inaccurate. This was the original plan, however, as indicated by a telegram received by General Francisco Gonzales, the Mexican garrison commander in the town across the river.

General George Bell, Jr., assembled his entire brigade on the banks of the Rio Grande on the American side and expected orders to cross before morning. Such orders would be based on the character of the official report being received by General Funston in San Antonio from the interior.

The Mexican artillery has been brought to the banks of the river on the opposite side near the international bridge. It is not believed, however, that the Mexican commander will attack El Paso, as there are already signs that the town will be evacuated before many hours.

The Mexican version of the fight placed the blame entirely on the American commander. This was to be expected. This is a way the Mexicans have. Here is the latest official issued by Francisco Gonzales at the Commandancia in Juarez:

Last night I received information that an American force of unknown strength had reached the Santo Domingo ranch.

I advised General Felix Gomez, stationed at Carrizal, to tell the United States commander to withdraw his camp.

The American commander did exactly the opposite, answering that he had to reach Villa Ahumada.

General Gomez then sent word again to the United States commander to withdraw, but the American troops answered by firing at the captain who carried the message, wounding the soldier and killing one of the Mexican officer.

The American force advanced without further notice and attacked the command of General Gomez.

They (the Americans) were repulsed, but General Gomez was killed, as well as a number of Mexican soldiers.

The American forces withdrew after that.

We took seventeen prisoners during the engagement, including the interpreter.

The prisoners were sent to Chihuahua City.

An earlier statement from General Gonzales, received informally after receiving the first news of the fight, was as follows:

There was an engagement between American and Mexican troops at Carrizal. We have no details.

We understand the American casualties were forty. A number of American prisoners have been taken.

Our own losses we do not know. Some Mexicans have been injured.

Mexican General Andres Garcia has confined his official notice to the following statement:

I can only confirm that there has been a fight between American and Mexican troops at Carrizal. I have not been furnished with the details.

Communications received from General Pershing via Columbus concerning routine matters early yesterday indicated that he was still at Colonia Dublan.

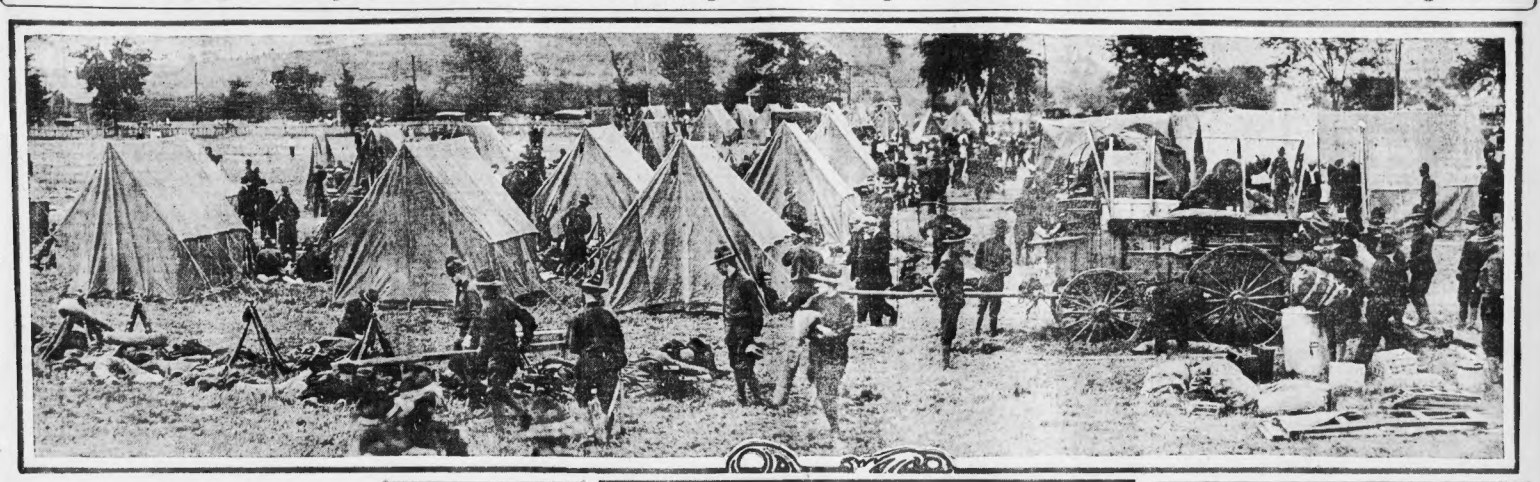
BAY STATE MILITIA, EAGER TO BE OFF, STARTS CAMP TRAINING TODAY

Scenes at Camp of Bay State Militia at Framingham Shortly After the Arrival of the Second Regiment



EXPECT IMMEDIATE ORDERS TO ENTRAIN

8,082. The hospital corps, signal corps, batteries and headquarters staff swell it to a grand total of 5,763.

The big and burning question throughout the camp is: "When will the on-to-Mexico order come?"

Between 5,000 and 6,000 militiamen awoke today, a lap nearer Mexico than they were yesterday. Their first real day in camp was a busy one. The first night was disagreeable starting with the heavy downpour of rain, which began before many of the late detachments had erected canvas.

The 1,000 "rookies" that reached camp yesterday received a real baptism, but it did not dampen their spirits. The recruits have enough "pep" for an army. One night of rain could not begin to cool it. The "rookies" are just longing for outfits.

"ROOKIES" AN INSPIRATION.

In spite of their grotesque appearance, compared with their uniformed comrades, the "rookies" are the most interesting and eloquent feature of the camp. They typify better than do their fellows who were already in the militia the spontaneity of patriotism.

"A stirring sight they make," said General Sweetser. "Beardless boys, most of them, but strong, active and willing. They came, most of them, with only what they had on their backs when they enlisted, without even a blanket.

"That is Americanism. That is the stuff that makes soldiers. The recruits have responded encouragingly and they are still coming. They are a clean-cut, sturdy lot of young fellows. I don't think it was the militia that attracted them, for the militia has been long in existence. It was the realization that they were needed. The old story.

CAMP OPEN TO PUBLIC

We are going to equip them without delay and to drill them separately. We are to have a stiff routine in camp here. The men will be busy from morning until night. We will establish thorough discipline. We will endeavor to toughen the men physically and to make them fit in every way.

Reveille will be sounded at 5:40. Breakfast will be served at 6:20. Work will begin at 7:30. Taps will be sounded at 10. We are not going to waste any time. We will give them setting up drills and plenty of marching. The hiking will be gradually lengthened and their equipment increased in weight.

Attention will be given to perfecting, as far as possible, the discipline of the organization as a whole. Pistol practice starts today, and we are inaugurating rifle practice without any delay. Officer's schools will be held evenings.

I shall endeavor to omit passes if possible. The camp will be open to the public, but we expect the sightseers to co-operate with us.

INVITE RELATIVES.

Relatives have a right to come. All we ask is that they do not attempt to turn the camp into a fair ground. If that is attempted, we naturally would have to be stricter, but we plan, as far as possible, to do away with red tape and too many regulations, and to make matters attractive and agreeable to visitors.

Nobody wishes to forbid a mother or sister or wife from seeing a member of the organization, but we hope that they do not expect to visit them while the men are on duty. There is much for us to do. Time is precious. We invite inspection.

The demonstration yesterday was the most wonderful I have ever witnessed. It surpassed the send-off in 1898. It was simply amazing, the size of the crowd and the enthusiasm displayed. To me the most astonishing feature was that it could have taken place with such short notice, twenty-four hours.

CREDIT TO BOSTON.

It shows that the hearts of the people are in the right place and that there is plenty of patriotism.

It was a credit to Boston, Colonel Edward L. Logan of the Ninth Regiment said.

It beat '98 all hollow. I was in a position to judge. The crowd yesterday was enormous and there was not a silent moment all along the route. In 1898 I walked as sergeant right behind the staff and although the enthusiasm was marked it was not a patch on yesterday.

Colonel Logan figured in one of the most stirring incidents of the parade when his aged mother left the sidewalk on Summer street near the South Station and presented him with a bouquet, and threw her arms around him.

The crowd cheered and as the commander of the "Fighting Ninth" started away, it was reported in Framingham, Mrs. Logan reeled and might have fallen but for willing hands that supported her. Colonel Logan today denied that his mother fainted.

DECLINE MAYOR'S GIFTS.

Colonel Logan also had the spotlight turned his way by refusing to have the men in his regiment wear the sprigs of green sent by Mayor Curley to the Newton street armory for the purpose. The men of the Ninth did not deck their hats with the eponymous which Park Commissioner Dilling had plucked for them in Franklin Park and Mayor Curley was reported to be hurt over the incident.

In many of the smaller cities business was suspended, buildings were decorated and thousands turned out to pay homage to the local companies. Flags were presented and farewells were sounded from belfries and factory whistles.

But in spite of the flags and the martial aroma, the grim side of the day persisted under all the glamour. Tears tempered the cheering.

It meant the departure of husbands and brothers and sweethearts. That was why the women and girls were out in such force all along the route. The South Station never held a larger crowd.

FRENZY OF APPLAUSE.

They stood for hours. At last there was a swaying of the crowd in the streets. The music of bands throbbed, and the slanting barrels of rifles and peaked hats poured into the train shed to a thunder of applause that drowned the martial strains and the puffing of locomotives.

Hats and flags were waved. Youngsters shrieked themselves hoarse. School classes shouted cries for favorite companies. Boys were perched by the dozen on the gates. The mounted police formed a flanking of horse flesh at the gates, where the crush was heavy.

Down the platforms marched the organizations, the Ninth having the right of line. Trains were labeled. The boys in khaki, perspiring and puffing, but light of spirit in spite of the cheering, crying concourse, hurried into the coaches to fill windows with heads and arms.

REPEAT FAREWELLS.

The crowd broke through lower gates and swept across the tracks and platforms, surged around the platforms and windows and shook hands. Kisses were exchanged with difficulty, good-byes said all over again. They swapped farewell messages and warnings, and then the police cleared dangerous platforms where trains were backing.

Hundreds walked beyond the shed to the outer ends of platforms, where they stood in the sunlight and waved good-bye as the six sections, with eight cars to a section, began to steam southward at 2:10.

Just before the first section, bearing part of the Ninth regiment, started, a little woman in black, carrying an infant, broke through the crowd and past the police cordon, tearing her waist and loosening her hair in accomplishing it. She got near enough to toss a kiss with her free hand to a sandy-haired young man, who bumped his head in his eagerness to see his wife and baby.

'98 ALL OVER AGAIN.

On the last platform of the first section out, stood Major William J. Casey, commander of the senior battalion of the Ninth, with several newspapermen. He said:

That spectacle gets me. It's '98 all over again. They will be down to Framingham in droves. That's the hard part of it, saying good-bye over and over again. We had to keep saying good-bye thirty days in '98.

In Framingham the incoming troops were given a rousing welcome. Buildings were decorated and crowds lined the streets. The Ninth regiment was led from the station to the camp field by Colonel John W. Dunn, chairman of the Boston Street Commission and a popular officer in militia circles. Colonel Logan was busy with General Sweetser and other officers who rode down in the last coach of the first section from Boston. They rode in a fleet touring car to the field.

DRUM CORPS OF '61 PLAYS THEM IN.

On Main street a squad of Spanish War veterans and G. A. R. veterans, with drum and colors, fell in. The drumming was done by Daniel Sheahan of Natick on his nickel-plated drum which the citizens of Natick presented to him on Memorial Day eve, when Judge McManus made the presentation speech.

Comrade Sheahan, by the way, is in his seventieth year, but he beat that drum in a manner that made one's toes dance.

Sheahan enlisted as a drummer boy at sixteen with the Third Massachusetts Heavy Artillery. He is now a member of Post No. 63, Natick. Beside him, with the post colors, walked Michael Hughes of Natick, who fought with the Ninth in Civil War days. Comrade Sheahan said he could drum better if he had not broken his right wrist while a light weight pugilist in his day. He said he used to train with John L. Sullivan.

The first infantry company on the field here yesterday was M Company of the Fifth Regiment, of Hudson. Captain F. B. Dawes, consisting of sixty-three men and nine rookies. They arrived at 10:30 a. m. By the time Major Christopher Harrison had the water system working, some stunt, as the old system had to be replaced.

THAT MEXICAN STOVEPIPE.

The first casualty was the toppling over of a stove pipe which struck, but did no more than to startle "a private. Name not disclosed.

H, A and C Companies, Second Regiment, and G Company of the Ninth from Worcester, were the next to arrive. Second Regiment, with companies from Springfield, was in camp before the Ninth Regiment arrived at 3:15.

It is a 2½-mile hike from the Framingham station to the camp. Colonel William C. Haves of Springfield is commander of the Second Regiment with a total muster of nearly 1,500. E Company from Orange, Captain W. L. Doane, is said to be the largest company on the field, with 130 men, only twelve short of war strength.

It was estimated by ranking officers last night that 4,500 at least were under canvas and that when the four regiments of infantry, embracing 48 companies were brought to maximum strength the total at the camp would be 7,344, or 1,836 to a regiment and 350 to a company.

BAY STATE IN LEAD.

Supplying four regiments, the Second, Fifth, Eighth and Ninth, gives Massachusetts the distinction of contributing the largest number of any State in the Union. It was on that account that the Sixth, one of the finest militia organizations in the country, was barred from the Mexican muster, it being ruled by the War Department that five regiments from one State would be excessive and could only be done by preventing a quota from some other New England State. So the boys of the Sixth must stay home, and they are disgruntled.

At top, members of Second Regiment pitching tents on the muster grounds at Framingham. Below, troopers getting food at one of the temporary camp kitchens.

Adjutant General Charles H. Cole received a communication from Washington yesterday announcing that the Federal government would not furnish funds this year for the field training of the militia, excepting coast artillery owing to the Mexican call, which means that Massachusetts must pay for the annual tour of the Sixth Regiment and First Corps Cadets.

CAVALRY DELAYED.

The four troops of cavalry were delayed from coming by scarcity of horses. The missing mounts were supplied from a shipment of 1,400 horses to have been made to the French army from Watertown. Adjutant-General Cole, who has been the magician in overcoming countless obstacles in the past three days, discovered that 150 of this consignment of horses were available, but that a fund of $30,000 was required. James J. Phelan of Hornblower & Weeks came to the rescue with his personal bond and the horses were assigned to the troopers.

It was late afternoon when the Eighth and Fifth Infantry arrived with their bands. Colonel Logan's outfit has the choicest position in camp. The Second Regiment is at the south end of the inclosure, opposite the central gate, the Eight comes next and then the Fifth. General Sweetser's brigade headquarters, marked by a blue brigade flag, is at the north end of the field. The Western Union Telegraph tent is also at that end.

The Ambulance Corps is located near the junction and the artillery is on Flagstaff Island, two miles away.

There is a total area of 175 acres. The old camp reservation was enlarged for the occasion by the leasing of two adjoining farms.

The tents grew faster than mushrooms. But the Eighth and Fifth Regiments were caught by the shower and had to resort to shelters. Colonel Logan's men had a colony of buff colored pyramids in order and company streets formed before dark. The Ninth was one of the first organizations established. Arms had scarcely been stacked, when guards were posted and the work begun.

Hangars for aviation work are being erected by Quartermaster General Emery. There will be accommodations for two aeroplanes.

A delegation of Worcester citizens arrived at the Ninth Regiment headquarters late yesterday afternoon and presented on behalf of the people of Worcester a beautiful silk flag to Captain Thomas F. Foley of G Company. Captain Foley is the leader of the Emmet Guards.

To Swear State Militia into U. S. Army in 48 Hours

The State militia at the concentration camp at Framingham will become part of the United States army within the next forty-eight hours, according to a statement made last night by Adjutant-General Charles H. Cole.

The information to this effect was received by General Cole from the War Department in the telegram which stated that the Federal mustering officer had been appointed.

Doctor Tells How To Strengthen Eyesight 50 per cent In One Week's Time In Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled at Home

Philadelphia, Pa. Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weakness? If so, you will be glad to know that, according to Dr. Lewis, there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to greatly strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules here in the prescription. Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With the solution bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start, and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent Physician to whom the above article was submitted said: "Bon-Opto is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent, in one week's time in the majority of cases. It should be obtainable at retail from any good druggist and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family. Sold by all Liggett-Jaynes Stores.

ADVERTISE YOUR WANTS IN THE BOSTON AMERICAN

NEW THREAT BY CARRANZA FOR U. S.

B. International News Service.

Washington, June 22.—Orders that he "seek an explanation" of the movement of the American cavalry which resulted in their being attacked by the forces of General Gomez at Carrizal yesterday were received by Mexican Ambassador Designate Arredondo today from General Carranza. He will ask an appointment with Secretary Lansing to present his case.

The orders also demand that he (Arredondo) ascertain from the State Department whether the American forces actually have occupied Casas Grandes and the reason therefore.

If this report is so, Arredondo is authorized to notify Secretary Lansing, then further trouble is certain to come.

It is understood that Arredondo has been directed to emphasize to the State Department that Carranza desires peace with the United States despite the recent correspondence and the fight at Carrizal, but that he must continue to insist that Mexican sovereignty shall not further be violated.

BLAME U. S. FOR BATTLE

The responsibility for yesterday's battle at Carrizal was placed upon the American troops by Mexican Ambassador designate Arredondo today.

Under direct orders from General Carranza, Arredondo called at the State Department just before noon and declared that the American forces were many miles outside of the limit placed on their activities by the Mexican government, and were "apparently proceeding in the general direction of Juarez."

They refused to retire when ordered, he said, and the battle followed.

At the same time Arredondo directly protested against the reported occupancy of Casas Grandes by American forces. He characterized such action as a direct violation of Mexico's territorial integrity. He demanded that the American troops there be withdrawn, explaining that if they were not further trouble must be feared.

SILENT ON NOTE.

The ambassador designate said he had received no word as yet from General Carranza, dealing with the American note on Tuesday.

Secretary Lansing made no reply to Arredondo. He explained that so far as the United States government was entirely without details of the fighting and that until a report is received from General Pershing he could not discuss the issues raised. Lansing promised to send for the ambassador as soon as the War Department forwards the Pershing report to him.

MRS. SEARS ASKS WOMEN TO AID SOLDIERS

Mrs. J. Montgomery Sears of the Back Bay calls upon Massachusetts women to make comfort kits for the soldier boys.

She will also get into communication with the towns where Massachusetts troops are stationed on the Mexican border and have canteens established. These are little huts where tea or coffee will be served with dainties.

MRS. SEARS CHAIRMAN.

Mrs. Sears is chairman of the Canteen and Kit Committee of the Special Aid Society for American Preparedness whose headquarters are at No. 541 Boylston street.

Here is a list of the articles to make up the soldier's kit:

Writing paper, pencil, post cards, cresol ointment, fly ointment, talcum powder, mosquito netting, one yard; candle, pins, matches, safety pins, comb, tooth powder, soap, strong string, shoe lacings, handkerchiefs, dominoes, cards, chocolate, sewing bag, socks, blunt pointed scissors.

APPEALS TO WOMEN.

The Red Cross sewing department, No. 687 Boylston street, calls upon every woman to give a few hours daily at their headquarters, sewing surgical garments.

"If every young woman of leisure this summer can afford to give two weeks or more of her spare time in this effort to make surgical garments," said Miss Newell, who is in charge of the department.

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN.

Instructions in home nursing and in first aid dressing will be also given. The rooms of this department of the Red Cross will be open all summer, and we would be very glad to get all the assistance possible. Spare time could be put to a worthy purpose and instructions of value to every woman will be given."

At the Peter Brigham Hospital women are working daily making surgical dressing in event of war with Mexico.

Weed Out Family Men from Militia.

Providence, June 22.—Rhode Island militiamen with large families dependent upon them are being sent home from the units encamped at Quonset Point. Captain J. J. Richards, acting major, has weeded out ten members on the ground that younger recruits were plentiful enough to permit men with large families to go home.

Most of the ten have families of four or five children.

Captain Richards also weeded out fifteen men as physically unfit.

There is still a rush of recruits here. At the office of which Lieutenant R. J. B. Sullivan has charge there were sixty applications, of which forty were accepted.

Several of the local textures, the Shepard company first among them, are to pay full salaries to employes in the militia.

U. S. Police Escort Villa's Wife to Border

By International News Service.

El Paso, June 22.—Mrs. Juanita Villa, one of the several wives of "Pancho" Villa, arrived in Juarez last night, from Los Angeles. A few minutes after stepping from a Southern Pacific train she was placed under arrest by secret service men and escorted to the Mexican end of the international bridge.

Militia Notes

A man who has seen service in Belgium has volunteered his services to General Cole. "I want to go with the outfit that will get the first whack at the Mexicans," he said. General Cole sent him to the Ninth Regiment. This was taken by some to mean that the Fighting Ninth will go to the frontier with the first detachment, but General Cole said that is a matter the War Department will decide.

* * *

The Massachusetts military bands have received many compliments for their "work" in the parade. State House military experts say that music is as much a lure for Mexicans as mescal.

* * *

As Governor McCall went to Central Square to meet the bankers' detective Hyde, a foreigner of the Police Dog breed, the only civilian in the carriage as it left the State House, Horrigan was applauded by wags, who thought he was the Governor.

* * *

Major H. Bert Knowles of the quartermaster-General's Corps today issued notice to all "Pooled" boats that he will issue transportation for them to South Framingham. His headquarters is at the Hotel Bellevue.

* * *

Major Knowles says the Massachusetts detachment can entrain from South Framingham in one day if the War Department decides to use all three railroads. If transportation goes by water the start will be made from Boston. This would require a rail ride from Galveston to the frontier.

GENERAL MILES OFFERS SON TO MILITIA

Lieutenant-General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., retired, today volunteered the services of his son, Sherman Miles, in the Mexican crisis.

General Miles, in a letter to Governor McCall, recommends his son for a commission as field officer in the Bay State troops, who General Miles evidently expects will be sent to Mexico. The aged war veteran is a resident of Westminster, Mass. His letter to Governor McCall:

His Excellency, Governor Samuel W. McCall.

My Dear Governor—Fifty-five years ago I spent all the money I had and $2,500 more that I borrowed, in raising a company for the Civil War. I was elected captain and commissioned and sworn into the United States service, but the night before the regiment left the State, the Governor sent me a first lieutenant's commission and commissioned as captain a foreman of a fire company. As a subaltern I was obliged to wait until the Governor of New York commissioned me a lieutenant-colonel and colonel of the Sixty-first New York Volunteers. I afterwards commanded a brigade and division, and, for a time, an army corps, composed entirely of New York troops.

Now that war is threatened, I have the honor to request that my son be commissioned, if possible, a field officer in one of the Massachusetts regiments going to Mexico. My son, Sherman Miles, was offered a commission by Governor Voigtlander in the war with Spain, but he was too young to accept. He served with me as aide-de-camp in Porto Rico. He graduated at West Point in 1905, has served in the cavalry and artillery in this country and Cuba for seven years.

During the last four years he has been on duty in Europe and has had a more extended experience and better opportunities of observing foreign armies than any officer of the American army. He served with the Balkan troops in the war against Turkey; was subsequently on duty there through the Balkan war, and during this greatest of all wars has been with the Russian army, as militia attache, in battles in Poland and Russia.

He stands six feet three inches in height; weighs 185 pounds and is physically and mentally qualified to hold any position to which he might be appointed. He is fully qualified to command a regiment of cavalry, infantry or field artillery, and as such I commend him to your favorable consideration.

This recommendation is based on character, ability and unusual experience. With great respect, I am, Very sincerely yours,

NELSON A. MILES,
Lieutenant-General U. S. A.

First Squadron Goes to Framingham Camp.

The First Squadron of Cavalry left the Commonwealth avenue armory at 9:30 today, the last of the Boston militia organizations to start for Framingham.

E, C and D troops proceeded direct to the camp, while A troop, the Lancers, clad in their service uniforms, acted as escort to Governor McCall at the Harvard Commencement exercises. They will go to Framingham this afternoon.

There were 397 men in the squadron, with four others who have not been mustered in as yet, and only 172 horses had been secured. Those who could not be mounted were sent to Framingham on trolley cars, and it is understood that mounts will be secured for them from the Watertown station, where horses are being held for France.

There were nine wagons and fourteen pack mules in the squadron. Very little difficulty was experienced with the horses.

Brisk Recruiting at All the Armories.

Recruiting at the various armories continued brisk today, particularly at the Charlestown armory, where a lieutenant and squad of men from each of the three Fifth Regiment companies, A, B and H, are caring for the applicants.

Lieutenant George E. Irving of B Company said:

"We hope to have all the companies here recruited to their full war strength within a few days, and then we will join the regiment at South Framingham. Only about 50 per cent. of the applicants are accepted. Charlestown boys intending to join their home companies should not delay their applications as the ranks are fast filling."

Harvard Awards 1181 Degrees At Exercises in the Stadium

Harvard held its first open air Commencement Day in the Stadium today. Fully eight thousand persons saw the awarding of the honorary degrees to men prominent in many fields of endeavor, and the giving of the academic degrees to exactly 1,181 students.

In the arrangements, tradition fell by the wayside, the time-honored custom of indoor exercises at Sanders Theatre, with its imposing procession, giving way to the open air of the Stadium.

The reason for the change is the fact that there were always thousands unable to gain admission to Sanders Theatre, which permitted but 1,400 to jam their way in, while the Stadium can accommodate many times that number.

PRESIDENT LOWELL LED MARCH.

Instead of the one-time Sanders Theatre procession, the parade of students, members of the Harvard Corporation and the guests formed at the locker building at the Stadium and, headed by President Lowell, marched the few steps to the point from which the president delivered the degrees.

The following honorary degrees were conferred:

MASTER OF ARTS.

Captain Constant Cordier, commander of the Harvard Regiment, who, from a sense of public service, has given unstintedly of his time and strength to teach our students the first steps toward serving their country in her hour of need.

Arthur Woods, police commissioner of the city of New York, who, in an office of great difficulty, has by his simple, straightforward and Emanuel character taught the police to serve the public on a higher plane, and won their confidence and that of the community.

Ernest Henry Wilson, a botanist, who has explored the flora of the Chinese-Tibetan land, and enriched with many Asiatic shrubs and trees the gardens of the western world.

Harold Murdock, vigorous man of affairs, dealing with men in busy marts, yet holding fast the charm of history and letters. A true lover of literature and books.

Edward Sandford Martin, shrewd philosopher of men and things, whose pen, in flowing prose and verse, amid the strut and fret and roar of public life, is guided by a calm and genial spirit.

DOCTOR OF DIVINITY.

George Hodges, a near neighbor and dear friend, who as dean of the Episcopal Theological School has brought to the education of the clergy every means of instruction within his reach. A good and faithful servant, who has expended and increased his ample talents in his Master's work.

Henry Churchill King, president of Oberlin College, who has exerted a profound spiritual influence throughout the land by helping large numbers of young men to a broader and deeper appreciation of Christianity.

DOCTOR OF LAWS.

Archibald Cary Coolidge, historian, teacher, writer, to whom every colleague owes a debt of gratitude as foremost among living administrators of libraries for scholars.

Francis Joseph Swayze, justice of the Supreme Court of New Jersey. Upright and impartial, learned and courageous, he has done honor to his university, which delights to honor him.

DOCTOR OF LETTERS.

Frank William Taussig, forcible teacher and writer, full in knowledge, clear in thought, accurate in statement, judicial by temperament. In the half-explored region of modern economics a master and a guide.

DOCTOR OF SCIENCE.

Richard Pearson Strong, knight-errant of these latter days, armed not like the knights of old, but with the power of science, yet running greater risks than they; destroying dragons invisible to mortal eye and saving not one or two, but hundreds and thousands by his art.

DOCTOR OF ARTS.

John Singer Sargent, when we and all the things we see about us here are seen no more, the canvas his hands have touched men will still gaze upon with wonder.

Thomas Nelson Perkins, first marshal of the class of '91, was chief marshal of the academic procession.

Governor McCall and his staff were expected to be in line.

With the procession safely seated in the Stadium, the Commencement exercises were started. Stanley B. Smith, '16, of Washington, D. C., read the customary address of greeting in Latin.

When Smith had concluded Robert Cutler, '16, of Brookline, who also wrote the class poem, spoke about the Harvard regiment. He said in part:

"There are many who feel that if the regiment is to continue another year, there must be drastic readjustments. In its present organization it is a very loose, anomalous body, dependent for its maintenance upon a volatile support, the interest and good will of students.

"Though it has received the sanction of the president, it is far from being a part of the university, and this lack of definite caste has prevented its exercise of powerful influence upon its members. A high order of discipline has not been maintained, because, under the circumstances, it could not be maintained. Without definite responsibility there can be in a mortal world no good discipline. As it is now organized, the Harvard regiment has not the inherent strength to command the great essential of military training, the respect and obedience of its members. Without respect and obedience no military body can exist.

"Whether the regiment survives or perishes, the doctrine of preparedness must not perish. It is too vital a doctrine to perish. God help the young republic which mistakes the sedative of pacifism for the pursuits of universal training! Preparedness is certainly not a general cure-all, but it is far more beneficial than the drug swallowed by the man who will not bear a little pain to ease a great one.

FAVORS PREPAREDNESS.

"If we are the countrymen of Washington and Lincoln, we shall act today. We shall have every American youth trained to be clean, orderly, upright and strong; we shall realize that obedience and discipline are as far removed from servitude as the sun from this earth; and we shall not have put upon institutions of learning the manifest, just, and noble duty of the mother country."

Adolf Berle, Jr., of Cambridge, representing the Law School, speaking on "A Government of Men," said in part:

"Is there no refuge from this commission sense which is being substituted for law? Fortunately, there is a law, greater than constitutions. Even under commissions, decisions make precedents; precedents, customs; such custom becomes law.

"The very cry for justice which was raised against courts, has led commissions to adopt methods of courts; pleadings, rules of procedure, forms of trials, to the end that the new justice might be fair and foursquare.

"The Interstate Commerce Commission coined for itself the description in which it glories: an economic court; and the name is no potent that later railway commissions are by statute created courts. Whereby it has come about that men crying for relief from the evils of courts, have but created a new group of tribunals, whose difference lies only in different traditions."

READS PART IN RHYME.

Odell Shepard of Los Angeles of the Graduate School of leave of absence from the University of Southern California, established a new precedent by reading a commencement part in rhyme. His offering was a long poem entitled "The Student in Wartime," portions of it follow:

When we have thought how every sluggish day
Steals from our youth away
Some rapture of the heart, some best of high desires,
Remembering how our sires
Have fallen foremost in the battle-play—
When we have looked upon our nerveless hands
And thought of brother students in far lands
And those for whom commemorative walls were built
At our own Harvard—it has seemed a shameful guilt
That they should fight for us
And save the holy right for us,
That their blood should be spent
Only that life might be more light for us,
Safer, and more content.

DEGREES AWARDED.

Then followed awarding of the degrees, more than 1,100, exclusive of the honorary degrees, being announced by President Lowell. The degrees and their number follow: A. B., 545; S. B., 96; A. M., 82; Ph. D., 55; M. D. A., 37; D. M. D., 61; M. D., 75; L. B., 170; scattering titles, 62.

During the day the alumni will ballot for five overseers, each to serve the full term of six years, the voting being held in Harvard Hall in conjunction with balloting for three new directors of the Harvard Alumni Association.

The candidates for overseers include Howard Elliott, J. Pierpont Morgan, the New York financier, Francis L. Higginson, Jr., and Congressman Winslow of Worcester.

The meeting of the Harvard Alumni Association was held in the Sever Quadrangle. Justice Sawyer, president of the association, opened the meeting after prayer had been offered.

Governor McCall was one of the speakers and President Lowell read a report on the financial situation of the college during the past year, and announced that the class of 1891, celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary, had given the university the customary gift of $100,000.

After this meeting most of those gathered for commencement exercises will go to New London to see the Harvard-Yale boat race.

COLLEGE STUDENT ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Manchester, N. H., June 22.—Julian Levassdur, aged fifteen, a student at St. Anslem's College, was accidentally shot last night by the discharge of a rifle which he had placed on a chair while answering the telephone in the college. It is thought that the young student had placed the rifle quickly on the chair and as soon as he did it discharged itself. The boy was taken to the Notre Dame Hospital, where he was found to be suffering from a wound in the abdomen.

London, June 22.—Mrs. Rita Armstrong Drexel, wife of Anthony J. Drexel, the American banker, was given judgment against her husband for a yearly allowance of $50,000 in the Chancery Court. When the case was last before the court in December, 1915, Mr. Drexel contested the jurisdiction of the English courts on the ground that he was a resident of France. This point was decided against him.

AWFUL PAIN FROM RINGWORM ON FACE

Then On Head. Itched Terribly. Very Large. Skin Sore and Inflamed. Had Wet Scales on It.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"I felt pimples coming out on my face, then on my head, and I began to scratch them for they itched terribly. The pimples were large and red and after a while they festered and seemed to run together like one great ball and then I knew it was ringworm. The ringworm was very large and the skin was sore and inflamed and had wet scales on it. I felt awful pain and I lost a great deal of sleep.

"I used a number of remedies. Then my hair began to fall out. A friend told me about Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I got them as soon as possible. They stopped the itching and falling out of my hair and I only used four cakes of Cuticura Soap and four boxes of Cuticura Ointment and I was healed." (Signed) Miss Ella Roy, Westport, Conn., Oct. 2, 1915.

GERMANS GAIN IN VERDUN ATTACK

By International News Service.

London, June 22.—Furious infantry assaults were delivered by the Germans last night on both sides of the Meuse river and on the Verdun front.

The French War Office in its communique today admitted that the Germans, after two determined attacks south and west of Vaux, succeeded in penetrating the advanced trenches of the French between Fumin and Chenois Woods.

Another strong assault was made by the Germans against the new French position on the southern slope of Le Mort Homme (Dead Man's Hill), but it was repulsed.

At the same time on the right bank of the Meuse the Germans attacked the French position at Hill No. 321, south of Boudromont quarries, and it too was repulsed under the fire of the French machine guns and artillery.

Fighting of great intensity was in progress during the greater part of the night over the major portion of the Verdun front.

CURZON POSSIBLE CANADIAN VICEROY

Ottawa, June 22.—Canada may have a new governor-general in the autumn. It is learned that the Duke of Connaught will probably close his term some time in the Fall. There is a remarkable that Lord Curzon of Kedleston, former Viceroy of India, will be his successor.

The Duke of Connaught had arranged to leave Canada in September, 1914, and the Prince of Teck had been announced as his successor. The Duke and Duchess of Connaught, with the Princess Patricia, had made preparations for their departure for England, and the Prince of Teck was about to sail from England when the war began. The Prince went to the front with the British forces and is still there. The Duke of Connaught announced he would continue in Canada.

GREECE PROTESTS ACTION BY ALLIES

Washington, June 22.—An identical note protesting vigorously against interference by the entente allies with the maritime trade of Greece has been presented by the Greek minister to the State Department, and the diplomatic representatives here of the Latin-American governments. It asserts traditional principles have been violated and that Greece has been unable to obtain any official explanation in reply to inquiries.

BRITAIN TO LICENSE MOTOR FUEL SALES

London, June 22.—According to the announcement made in the House of Commons today, the increased import of motor cars are to be rescinded and a neutral authority created with power to grant permits for the purchase of specified amounts of petrol, on which a license of six pence per gallon must be paid at the time of purchase. On commercial cars or those of doctors and veterinary surgeons, permits will be issued at half rates.

LONDON SEES NEW PLOT BY GERMANS

By International News Service.

London, June 22.—It is learned that information in possession of the British Foreign Office is to the effect that $75,000,000 of German money has been deposited in banks on the Mexican border. These funds, it is stated, are being used to foment trouble between Mexico and the United States.

BRITISH LIGHTSHIP BLOWN UP; 5 DEAD

London, June 22.—The Cotton lightship, situated several miles off the English coast, has been sunk with the loss of five members of its crew, drowned or killed, says a Central News dispatch from Great Yarmouth. Whether the sinking was due to a mine or submarine is unknown. The survivors, badly injured, have been landed.

BRITAIN MAY CLOSE TWO U. S. CONCERNS

POTATO FAMINE MENACES COLOGNE

BRITAIN BARS KIN FROM THE WOUNDED

This restriction has been imposed owing to the necessities of the military situation.

SEACONNET TOTAL LOSS, WITH CARGO

London, June 22.—The American steamer Seaconnet, owned by a Boston company, which was run ashore on the Scroby sands on the Suffolk coast having been damaged by an exterior explosion, has been abandoned by her salvage operators and declared a total loss.

Allies Gain in Africa.

London, June 22.—The British have made gains at two points in German East Africa. In the northwest theatre, Belgium columns occupied the line between the head of the Tanganyika and the southwestern extremity of Lake Victoria.

WAR SUMMARY

A sharp diplomatic note is sounded in the midst of the European war activities in the form of a strong protest offered to the State Department at Washington by the Greek minister against seizure by the Entente Allies of vessels flying the Greek flag, to convert them into transports. Representatives of Latin-American governments back up the Greek protest. For over a fortnight, according to the Greek note, the allies have been subjecting Greece to a limited blockade and taking Greek ships to entente naval bases.

While the Russian left wing continues its pursuit of the retreating Austrians of General von Pflanzer's divided force in the crown land of Bukowina, the Russian centre and right are locked in a long series o fvicious engagements with the German reinforcements from Buczacz northward. The most significant admission from Vienna as to the disordered state of the retreat through Bukowina is contained in a paragraph that: "While fighting our rearguards the enemy has crossed the Sereth."

But even more significant, in its bearing on the ultimate result in the eastern theatre, is the substantial check which the Germans are working upon the Russian centre. Petrograd admits that fighting along the Styr river is "desperate," that the village of Gruziatyn changed hands several times and that they, the Russians, were finally obliged to evacuate it. The Russians say they took 400 prisoners there but the German official says that Russian forces "near Gruziatyn" who crossed the Styr were thrown back, with loss of 1,000 prisoners.

Petrograd announces that the total number of prisoners taken by General Brusiloff from June 3 to 15 was more than 172,000.

NATIONALISTS IN IRELAND DIVIDED

Belfast, June 22.—The conference of the Ulster Nationalists, to be held in Belfast on Friday, will decide on a great deal more than the acceptance or rejection of the Lloyd-George proposals.

It will determine whether the Nationalist government is in the future to be dominated by the clergy or the laity. The whole future of the Nationalist Parliamentary party is wrapped up in Friday's meeting.

SAY HINDENBURG REACHED PORT AFTER FIGHT

New York, June 22.—Captain Hagemeister of Mexico City, here today on the Scandinavian-American liner Oscar II, from Copenhagen, said that the German dreadnought Hindenburg, which the British claimed to have sunk, is riding at anchor in a port 700 miles from the scene of the Jutland naval battle.

Captain Hagemeister said he did not know how many vessels the Germans lost, but that he saw the Hindenburg after the battle himself.

CRUISER BIRMINGHAM LEAVES BOSTON, PROBABLY FOR MEXICO

The United States scout cruiser Birmingham, which returned to Charlestown Navy Yard, its home port, only two days ago from a fortnight's try out after extensive overhauling and machinery repairs, left suddenly today, ostensibly on a power and endurance run to Eastport, Me., which, in the opinion of local naval men, will shortly develop into orders to Mexican waters.

The Birmingham is due at Eastport at 1 p. m. tomorrow, with instructions to await there orders from Washington.

It took out an unusually large stock of coal, ammunition and supplies. When the scout cruiser sailed from Charlestown Navy Yard there was a general understanding among naval officers here that it was to be dispatched to Mexican waters, probably taking with it submarines and torpedo boat destroyers from here and Newport.

The Birmingham is the flagship of Rear Admiral Albert Gleaves, commanding the destroyer flotillas of the Atlantic fleet. Rear Admiral Gleaves sailed on the Birmingham, which is in charge of Commander D. F. Sellers.

The Birmingham is a third-class cruiser of 3,750 tons, with 16,000 horsepower and mounting two guns. It is a light draught vessel and could navigate Mexican rivers.

WILLIAMS HELD IN MACK SHOOTING

Fred Williams was held in $1,000 for the Grand Jury today in the Brighton Court on a charge of shooting with intent to kill Edward Mack, well known in sporting circles. The shooting occurred recently during a ball game at Braves Field.

Mack was called as a witness, but failed to identify Williams. He declared he could not tell who shot him, there were so many in the crowd watching the ball game.

CHEVROLET

A PROVEN POLICY

To build quality motor cars is, and always will be, our policy.

The fulfillment of this policy, proven by the performance record of over sixty-five thousand Chevrolet cars, created the demand which makes quantity production possible.

And it is quantity production, plus pioneer experience and ample resources, which make the price of Chevrolet quality cars so low.

But refinement has in no instance been sacrificed for price.

Chevrolet quality cars are built in two chassis models, the "Four-Ninety," the little aristocrat of motordom, and the "Baby Grand," a large, powerful touring car.

U-Boat Safe at Spain with Kaiser's Note to Alfonso

Madrid, June 22, via Paris.—The arrival of the German submarine U-35 at Cartagena was officially confirmed. The submarine is anchored alongside the Spanish cruiser Catalana. The secretary of the German embassy at Madrid has left for Cartagena to receive an autograph letter from the German Emperor to King Alfonso, supposed to be thanks for the reception given interned Germans from Kamerun.

The submarine came from Pola, the Austrian naval base.

The section of the press which favors the German side in the war publishes articles today eulogizing the Germans sailors for their naval exploits.

Court Dismisses Plea to Prevent Six Cent Fares

A bill brought by the Board of Selectmen of Arlington against the Bay State Street Railway Company, seeking to have the court enjoin the railway company from increasing the fares has been dismissed by the full Bench of the Supreme Court. In April, 1897, Arlington granted a location to the Arlington and Winchester Street Railway Company and one of the condition of the franchise was that only a five-cent fare should be charged to any point in either town. Arlington claimed that the Bay State road, which later secured control of the Arlington and Winchester Street Railway Company was bound by this agreement. The full court holds that the question is entirely within the control of the Public Service Commission.

Found Dead in Bed with Gas Tube in Mouth

With one end of a gas tube in his mouth and the other end attached to an open burner, E. M. Downey was found dead in bed in his room on the top floor of the dwelling on Shawmut avenue, South End, today. He left a note asking that Mrs. E. M. Downey, No. 8337 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, be notified. Mrs. Margaret McDonald, the landlady, said Downey hired the room last night. It was she who detected the odor of escaping gas and notified the police, who broke in the door and had Downey removed to the City Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

NEW GAINS ARE REPORTED BY RUSSIANS

By International News Service.

Petrograd, June 22.—Fighting between the Russian and Austro-German armies is now in progress over a front of 500 miles. The army groups of both General Kuropatkin and General Brusiloff are now engaged.

Despite the tremendous efforts of the Germans to save the Austro-Hungarian army, the Russians continue to advance, and to the Rumanian border the infantry is engaged at numerous points.

At the extreme southern end of the battle line the Austro-Hungarian army in Bukowina is still in wild flight, pursued by Russian cavalry. The most violent infantry fighting is taking place in Volhynia on the Styr and Stochod rivers, where the German troops are striving desperately to save the bases of Kovel and Lemberg.

On the Kisselin-Vladimir line the German troops have been heavily reinforced with both men and guns in an effort to prevent the Russians from cutting through to the Cholm railway, thus severing the German lines of communication south of Kovel.

Austria is reported to be withdrawing troops from the Balkans to replace lost units in Galicia, but already the most of Bukowina is in Russian hands.

This is the twentieth day of the Russian offensive, which was opened simultaneously in Volhynia and Galicia on June 2. In that time the Austro-Hungarians and Germans have lost at least six army corps in killed, wounded and prisoners. The Russian losses, in view of the successes gained, have been comparatively light.

Germans Report Russian Repulse.

By International News Service.

Berlin, June 22.—German successes in both the Eastern and Western theatres of war were reported today by the War Office. On the Western front, west of Vaux (northwest of Verdun), the German army gained ground from the French. On the Eastern front in Volhynia, the army of General Von Linsengen, not only repulsed the Russian attacks, but took some Russian positions. Efforts of the Russians northwest of Luck were repelled.

The text of the German official report follows:

"East front—At the northern end of the front there have been only unsuccessful patrol incursions by the Germans. The Lunitetz railway south of Pripet has been bombarded.

"Russian attacks against the army of General von Linsengen south and west of Logischin (on the Oginski canal line) failed. Russian attacks west of Kolki were also unsuccessful.

"Between Zokal and Lipiewka the Russian positions captured by us were held despite strong counter-attacks. Continuous attacks have been made by the Russians northwest of Luck, but all were without result.

"On both sides of the Turija River and southward over the line of Horochow and Swiniuchi the Russians have been forced back."

GREECE YIELDS TO DEMANDS OF ALLIES

By International News Service.

London, June 22.—On Wednesday Alexandre Zaimis called upon the French Minister to Greece and announced that all the demands of the allies had been accepted, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Athens today. These included demobilization of the army, formation of a new cabinet having an attitude of benevolent neutrality toward the allies and the dismissal of police agents under foreign influence to be replaced by agents nominated by the entente powers. The telegram indicated that M. Zaimis had accepted the post of Prime Minister, succeeding M. Skouloudis.

OTTOMANS SEIZE MISSION SCHOOLS

By International News Service.

New York, June 22.—Schools and hospitals owned and conducted by the American Board of Foreign Missions at Marsovan and Sivvas, Turkey, valued at more than $500,000, have been commandeered by the Turks for military purposes and the missionaries compelled to abandon their work.

This was the statement yesterday of six Americans who left Constantinople because of scarcity of food and the antipathy shown by natives to English-speaking people. They arrived here on the Oscar II, of the Scandinavian-American line.

ALLIES MAY LAND TROOPS AT PIRAEUS

By International News Service.

Salonica, June 22.—A squadron of Anglo-French warships is under orders to cruise off Piraeus, the port of Athens. Troops may be landed there.

SUSTAIN HOTEL IN RENTAL DISPUTE

The exceptions of Nathan Matthews and others were today sustained by the full bench of the Supreme Court in the suit of George Adams Wood, who sued to recover for services rendered the defendants in securing a tenant at the Hotel Oxford. Wood claimed that through his solicitation Archie E. Hurlburt agreed to lease the Hotel Oxford on Huntington avenue for a term of three years from November 1, 1912, at a rental of $20,000 a year. The case was tried two years ago, and a verdict of $7,021.58 was returned by a jury in favor of Wood. The full court holds that the contract upon which Wood relied was preliminary and had not been completed.

Mediterranean Still Infested by Submarines

German submarines are active in the Mediterranean, according to information reaching Boston by the Belgian steamship Haelen, just here from Rotterdam. Captain Staemer was sent by orders to proceed to New York, where a cargo for the Belgian Relief Commission will be loaded. Officers of the steamship declare that the vessel left Alexandria, Egypt several weeks ago in company with seven British steamships. The seven Britishers were all sunk by submarines in the Mediterranean, but by taking a roundabout course the Haelen escaped.

After coaling the steamship will leave for New York today.

Norse Steamer Torpedoed.

London, June 22.—The Norwegian steamer Aquilla has been torpedoed by an Austrian submarine 100 miles off Marseilles, according to a Reuter dispatch from Christiansand, Norway.

IMMELMAN IS KILLED IN HIS AEROPLANE

London, June 22.—A Berlin dispatch to the Copenhagen correspondent of the London Telegraph states that Lieutenant Immelman, the daring aviator who, on May 17, brought down his fifteenth aeroplane, was killed while reconnoitering on the western front on Tuesday.

This is the second reported fatality in the German air corps within a week. On Saturday Captain Boelke was reported killed, also on the western front, but was yesterday said to be still active in the air.

Captain Boelke and Lieutenant Immelmann are credited with having brought down more allied aeroplanes than any other airmen, Boelke ranking first in this respect.

EVERETT MAN IS KILLED AT VERDUN

Captain D. J. McKinney of the First Canadian Battalion lost his life in action at Verdun on June 15, according to a telegram just received from the Canadian military authorities by his mother, Mrs. William McKinney, who lives on A street, Everett.

During the present war, in which he has taken part in nearly all the important German-British engagements in northern France, McKinney rose from the rank of sergeant to that of captain for conspicuous bravery. Several times during the war his name was prominent among those mentioned in reports for meritorious conduct on the field of battle.

In the engagement in which he was killed, three other captains and a lieutenant of the Canadian contingent also lost their lives.

Where Love and Luck Were Partners

This is the absorbing romance of the artist who thought he had lost everything worth while in life. How his fortune changed and he won the woman of his heart and $10,000,000 is told in next Sunday's Boston American. A finely illustrated article.

'MOST UNJUST,' CABOT SAYS OF CRITICISM

Dr. Richard C. Cabot hits the Massachusetts Medical Society for their criticism of him and accuses them of the grossest injustice because he desires to introduce an entirely new method of practice.

"Luckily you can't hurt me in the least," he tells the society in a letter which has just been made public, in the current number of the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.

WILLING TO BE EXPELLED.

Dr. Cabot is willing to be expelled from the society on account of his new views in the practice of medicine.

"You disprove of my trying to introduce new methods of practice," he continues. "But you can't disapprove of me.

"Whenever you plainly state what you disapprove of, I will answer you in plain terms. Until then, I shall, late, treated me with the grossest injustice.

SOCIETY DENIES CHARGE.

The society, through Dr. A. Gages, sent back the following reply to this, which, among other things, says:

"Your assumption that we intended to do you injustice or to hurt you in the least is due, we think, to a misapprehension. What we intended to convey to you is the idea that a great many of your fellow practitioners felt that you had been unfair to them in your public utterances, which, if true, constitutes an injustice."

At the next meeting drastic measures will be taken to censure Dr. Cabot more severely, but many of the members of the society believe that they should leave Dr. Cabot alone, and, as one physician said with much humor, "We mustn't take Dr. Cabot seriously."

GILLETTE MEN ARE KEPT ON PAYROLL

Twenty-six of the employes of the Gillette Safety Razor Company are now in camp with the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia under the leadership of Captain William J. McCarthy of Company B, Ninth Regiment.

The wages of these men will be paid them for a reasonable length of time while on duty and their places are being held pending their return.

Some time ago the Gillette Company appointed a special preparedness committee with authority to select from among the employes twenty-five young men and arrange for their enlistment in the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, the company agreeing to pay the wages of these men during their annual tour of duty. The Gillette executives feel that the National Guard is the proper training place for recruits as the men are continually under military control for the period of their three-year term of enlistment.

KANSAS BULL MOOSE NOT TO HAVE TICKET

By International News Service.

Topeka, Kans., June 22.—Following a conference between William Allen White, national committeeman, and C. S. Sartin, State chairman of the Progressive party, the presidential electors were withdrawn from the nomination records in the Secretary of State's office.

The action means that all the big men in the Progressive party in Kansas, with the possible exception of Victor Murdock, will be back under the Republican banner in November. With the removal of the names of their presidential electors, both White and Sartin made clear that they expected to support the Republican presidential nominee.

"There will be no Progressive ticket in Kansas this year, so far as I know," White said. "A majority of the delegates have notified me of their intention to support Hughes."

"FALL OF LIEGE" TO BE SHOWN TONIGHT

A mammoth display of fireworks, during which close to $2,000 worth of pyrotechnics will be discharged, will be given at Braves Field this evening. It is the first of several similar displays to be given at Braves Field during the Summer, and in addition to much aerial work a number of expensive set pieces will be discharged. One of these will represent the fall of Liege with guns, bombs and shells in profusion. A concert by Palladino's Military Band of forty pieces will precede and follow the two hours' display of fireworks. It is the intention of the management to make tonight's display even more notable than the exhibition presented at the field last Fall.

500 NEWPORT WOMEN IN HOLIDAY PARADE

Newport, R. I., June 22.—Mrs. French Vanderbilt and Mrs. John Nicholas Brown, heads of the publicity and recruiting committees for the women's division of the patriotic relief office of their committees, met at City Hall today and reported that 500 women had been enrolled to march. A reception is to be opened in the business section next week to secure others to march.

Mrs. William Rogers Morgan, Commander Rufus Z. Johnston of the training station, Lawrence L. Gillespie, and Captain Adnar Clarke of Fort Adams, have been elected judges to award prizes for the best appearing organizations and floats in line.

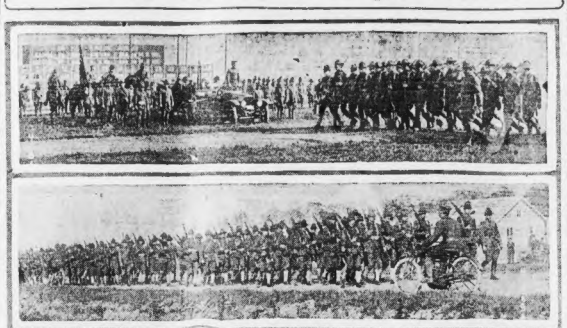
ROSE GARDEN PARTY ON GINN ESTATE

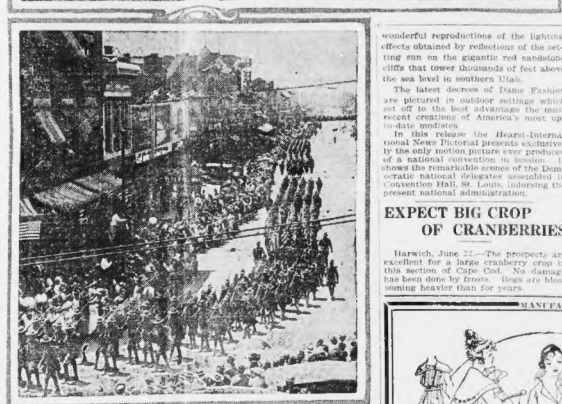
An English rose garden party was given today on the beautiful estate of Mrs. Edwin Ginn at Winchester, under the auspices of the Winton Club. A program was also arranged for the evening.

The members of the club are sixty society women who are for the Winchester Hospital, and the proceeds from the party will be turned over to that institution.

The famous Ginn rose garden, containing 2,000 rose bushes in full bloom, was thrown open and fully dazzling was given to the society women of Winchester.

Hearst-International News Pictorial Shows Militiamen Prepare for War





©HEARST-INTERNATIONAL NEWS PICTORIAL

At top, Major-General John F. O'Ryan, commander of the New York National Guard, reviewing State troops making ready for Mexican border duty. In centre, New York National Guard infantry in solid marching order. Below, U. S. troops passing through the streets of El Paso and being reviewed by General Bell. These films are out today and can be seen at the leading moving picture houses.

When the National Guardsmen of all the States were ordered into readiness for duty along the Mexican border, the Hearst-International News Pictorial cameramen were on the job.

Reel No. 49, released today, shows militiamen of several States in the highest state of preparedness for active service, among them the well-trained New York State troops, commanded by General John F. O'Ryan, and the First Illinois Cavalry. All of these troops are now mobilized and ready to entrain on an instant's notice upon orders from General Funston's border headquarters.

THE NEWS PICTORIAL.

The News Pictorial of this issue presents a remarkable view of the schooner Virginia, which was driven ashore by a gale at Salisbury Beach, Mass., to be beaten to pieces by wind and wave.

SHOWS ROSE FESTIVAL.

Two disastrous fires that visited San Francisco are pictured in this release of the news reel. In the blazes that swept a State pier in the Coast City several hundred freight cars loaded with baled cotton were destroyed. In a large warehouse fire several firemen were overcome by smoke and damage amounting to $150,000 was done.

Portland, Oregon, is represented in the reel by the city's gorgeous rose festival pageant in which pretty girls mingle with millions of blossoms, creating an unusual pictorial effect.

Motion pictures of Turkish infantry in action are presented in the war section of the reel, together with scenes showing the wounded fighters being cared for by Red Cross nurses.

CONVENTION SCENES.

In Chicago's National League baseball park the children of the North Side public schools are shown demonstrating to their parents and a large crowd of others the results of their physical training.

The scenic feature of Reel 49 contains wonderful reproductions of the lighting effects obtained by reflections of the setting sun on the gigantic red sandstone cliffs that tower thousands of feet above the sea level in southern Utah.

The latest decrees of Dame Fashion are pictured in outdoor settings which act off to the best advantage the most recent creations of America's most up-to-date modistes.

In this release the Hearst-International News Pictorial presents exclusively the only motion picture ever produced of a national convention in session. It shows the remarkable scenes of the Democratic national delegates assembled in Convention Hall, St. Louis, indorsing the present national administration.

DICK MARRIES MRS. ASTOR AT BAR HARBOR

Bar Harbor, Me., June 22.—The wedding of Mrs. Madeleine Force Astor, widow of Colonel John Jacob Astor, and William Karl Dick, the New York banker, took place at 2 p. m. in St. Mary's chapel of St. Saviour's Episcopal Church. The chapel was banked with flowers. Lilacs predominated in the decoration scheme. Great bunches of these flowers were sent to the church during the morning by Mrs. Astor from her home, Ildeote.

A luncheon to fifteen of the guests followed the ceremony. This took place at the Hotel de Gregoire. Mr. Dick presided as host. Mrs. Astor did not attend, but remained at Ildeote until it was time for her to go to the church.

Difficulties attended the wedding plans until almost the last moment, but late in the morning Rev. Dr. Albert C. Larned, who had been selected to perform the ceremony, announced that these had been straightened out and that the wedding would take place at the time set.

It had been expected that the bridal couple would leave Bar Harbor in a special car en route to California, but this plan was changed. Instead, Mr. Dick reserved seven compartments of one car on the New York express for the guests and engaged a drawing room in an adjoining car for himself and bride.

The Maine law which prevented the wedding taking place at the time originally planned prevented the party from having a special car. This had been secured, but when the ceremony had to be delayed the order was cancelled.

During the honeymoon John Jacob Astor, the four-year-old son of the bride, will remain at Ildeote with his grandmother and aunt.

MILITIAMAN FROM CAMBRIDGE IS HURT

Framingham, June 22.— Private William Hamilton of Cambridge, attached to the Signal Corps, was thrown from a supply wagon and was carried to the field hospital where he lies unconscious.

The extent of his injuries is unknown, but the surgeon in charge is confident of his recovery.

Ossining, N. Y., June 22.—Oreste Shillitani, in Sing Sing awaiting execution for the murder of John Risso and Patrolmen William Heaney and Charles Teare in 1913, escaped from his cell, shot two guards with a revolver that had been smuggled to him and dashed out of the prison a few minutes after midnight, only to be recaptured less than two hours later.

CURED HIMSELF OF THE LIQUOR HABIT

A Missouri Man After Drinking for Thirty-Five Years Banished His Craving for Liquor With a Simple Home Recipe.

Mr. Thos. J. D. O'Bannon, a well known resident of Missouri, living at R. F. D. No. 3, Fredericktown, Mo., banished his craving for liquor with a simple recipe which he mixed at home.

Mr. O'Bannon recently made the following statement: "I am 51 years old and had drank for thirty-five years. My craving was so great I could not quit liquor. More than a year ago I had the following simple recipe filled and began taking it and it entirely banished my craving for liquor. To 5 oz. of water add 20 grains of muriate of ammonia, a small box of Varlex Compound and 10 grains of pepsin. Take a teaspoonful three times a day. Any druggist can mix it for you or supply the ingredients at very little cost. This recipe can be taken of your own accord or given to anyone secretly in coffee, tea, milk or in food as it has no taste, color or smell and is perfectly harmless. I believe any drunkard can cure himself with this simple recipe."

Dorothy Dix Declares Orpet Is Tangled on Lies Over Girl's Death

By DOROTHY DIX.

Waukegan, Ill., June 22.—The Orpet trial looked like a Sunday morning service of the Methodist Church yesterday. Most of the good sisters of the Lake Bluff Methodist Church, of which Celestia Youker's father was pastor for several years, had come for to see and for to hear Miss Youker testify as to whether she was engaged to Will Orpet or not.

But their curiosity remained unrewarded. Hour after hour they sat through a dull and tedious session in which the lawyers grappled over technicalities of the law, and minor witnesses came and went, and at last court adjourned with Miss Youker still invisible and her tale untold.

Perhaps they may not see her at all, for Mr. Daly has declared that he will not put her on the stand unless he considers it absolutely necessary, and so one bright feature that has flitted wraith-like through all this sordid story of decadent youth may never materialize upon the witness stand.

The trial reached its "big moment," so far as the State is concerned, when it brought against Orpet the most damaging witness that he could be called to face, and that was his own statements made to Mr. Day when he went to Madison to interview the boy about the death of his little sweetheart.

Nothing that anybody else could say about him, no testimony that any one else could bear against him, no matter how false, could hurt the presumption of his innocence so much as does the fact that he lied about when he had written to Marian last, and lied about when he had heard from her, and lied about when he had been in Lake Forest, and lied about every hour of the day on which she died. You couldn't argue with these lies! You couldn't cross-examine them. You couldn't explain them. They simply stood there and mocked their creator.

And they were painful, too, when you thought of their setting. It didn't take much imagination to picture how frightened, how bewildered the boy had been, dragged from his room in his college boarding house to the jail in Madison, and confronted suddenly with the mailed fist of the law. Guilty or innocent, his little world suddenly toppled into ruins about him. Whether he killed Marian Lambert or was merely the hapless witness of her suicide, he knew himself under suspicion. At the best he saw himself involved in an unsavory scandal, for his relations with the dead girl would be published to the world. No doubt, too, in that moment he thought of the parents' pride in him, the sacrifices that they made for him, and realized how blighting and bitter would be the shame he had brought on them.

NETWORK OF LIES.

So when District Attorney Daly began to question him he lied feebly and futilely, contradicting himself a hundred times, involving himself in a network of deceit as transparent as that a child would weave.

He said at first that he had not seen Marian Lambert since the Christmas holidays, and that he had not been home since the holidays, and that he had only heard of the girl's death through reading of it in the newspapers. He knew nothing of it at all, and gave the impression that he had only known her slightly. Then he said that on the day that Marian was found dead he had got up at six o'clock, had breakfast at a restaurant, walked fifteen or twenty miles in the country, came back and read the magazines in the library, had dinner at another restaurant, and went to a moving picture show, but during all that time had never met a single human being that he knew.

And when Daly questioned him about the letters that he found in Marian's desk he made a thousand false explanations of every detail until, at last, the bewildered kid, honestly entangled in a maze of contradictions and falsehoods, surrendered and confessed.

TELLS OF LOVE AFFAIR.

Then he told of the intimate relations that existed between himself and Marian Lambert, and that last Fall that she had told him that she was "in trouble."

He said that he had slipped away from school and had come down on Saturday, and seen her, and had telephoned to her as soon as he reached Lake Forest, and that he had waited for her the next morning across from the Sacred Heart Station.

He said that Marian had joined him there and that they had walked through the woods, he telling her that he wanted to break off their relationship, and she begging and imploring him not to give her up still arguing over the subject, they came to the three oaks and stopped, and he told her that he was through with her, and refused to leave her. She called out to him: "Is there no chance for me? Is there no chance for me?"

Twice, he said, he went back and they talked it over, but at last he turned and when he had gone a short distance he heard her give a little cry, and when he turned back he saw her fall, as if she had fainted, but when he reached her she was dead. And then he was terribly frightened and he turned and left the woods and went back to Madison.

He told of his own story of the death of Marian Lambert as he told it to Mr. Daly, and it was taken down by a stenographer in the presence of Orpet and Mr. Daly and Mr. Enfield, a newspaper man, who testified yesterday.

"NO SUICIDE THREAT."

On this occasion, when Orpet was asked if he had ever heard Marian threaten to commit suicide or if he had ever known of her having any poison in her possession, he replied: "Positively no."

The other important witness of the day was an angel-faced boy reported named Fraganza, with a wit like a Damascus blade, who fenced for an hour or two with Mr. Potter to the intense enjoyment of the jury. Mr. Fraganza told of how he had gotten himself arrested and thrown into jail in order to interview Orpet after reporters had been barred by his counsel from talking with him.

Mr. Fraganza declared that Orpet had told practically the same story that was embodied in his confession, and that Orpet had also told him that his relations with Marian were a "cold deal"; that he had never told her that he loved her and had never asked her to marry him. And that he had said that girls like Marian liked to have "college guys" visiting them, and that Marian was "nothing but a gardener's daughter."

When Fraganza made this statement William Orpet denied it hotly, shaking his head. Leaning down, he began to write rapidly something that he passed to his father.

Mr. Fraganza also testified that Orpet had said to him that he was innocent, although it looked bad for him, everything would be cleared up and that when he questioned him as to whether he was engaged to Celestia Youker or not, he said:

"Yes, but I don't want to bring her into this. I don't want to drag her name into the papers, and I will break off the engagement, if she doesn't, to save her from being mixed up in this."

JUDGE ADMITS LETTERS.

It was not a happy day for Orpet, for in addition to Fraganza's testimony, and his own confusion, Judge Donnelly reversed his decision about the admission of the letters of Orpet to Marian Lambert going to the jury, although he reserved the right to expurgate such portions as he thought necessary. This is a distinct blow to the defense, for they are highly prejudicial in character, as Judge Donnelly said, and it would take a very fair-minded man to bear in mind that Orpet is being tried for murder and not for winning a young girl's heart, and making of her a plaything that he broke and flung away after he tired of her.

But the gruelling weeks of anxiety are nearly over for him. The worst is past. Today the State expects to rest its case and then he will have his innings.

DORCHESTER GIRL DIES FROM INJURIES

Portland, Me., June 22.—Miss Blanche Morin, twenty-two, of Dorchester, whose skull was fractured when the automobile in which she was riding collided with a train at the West Scarboro railroad crossing, is dead at the Maine General Hospital.

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRISON.

The Eastport Automobile Association has just extended a helping hand to the town of Perry. There was a stretch of road which was very bad, yet which it was absolutely necessary to traverse going to and from this city by automobile. The association took a crew of 150 men and fifteen teams and devoted one day to the piece of highway. It now compares favorably with any road in Maine which has not been macadamized.

BOSTON ROOKIES WIN STRIPES AT PLATTSBURG

Plattsburg, N. Y., June 22.—The One Hundredth Company, Coast Artillery Corps, comprising 160 men, with Captain Howard L. Landers in command, from Fort H. G. Wright, Fishers Island, New York, and two troops, G and H, of the Second Cavalry, commanded by Major William C. Rivers, from Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont, have arrived here to assist in the instruction of the students at the training camp.

The field radio sets, a part of the war reserve of the army which have been in use in the instruction during the present camp, have been dismantled and packed for shipment to the Mexican border for use by the signal corps there.

The camp officers, however, will continue the instruction in signalling by wig-wag, semaphore and heliograph. The departure of the radio sets is a keen disappointment to the "rookies" who have been taking this work as their special subject. This class is developing rapidly and gave promise of being proficient in radio telegraphy by the end of the camp.

The target practice is expected to finish tonight. The final scores and ratings of qualified men will be published before the hike begins.

The high winds are swiping the range again, made practice uncomfortable yesterday. In spite of the wind, however, some creditable scores were made.

Today official announcement was made of the appointments to commissioned grades in the training regiment.

Massachusetts men fared well in the division of honors. Among those promoted were: Acting Regimental Quartermaster Thomas S. Bradlee of Nahant; batallion adjutant, second batallion, Theodore E. Burfeind, Malden, batallion quartermaster, with rank of second lieutenant, Arelde Roosevelt of the Harvard regiment.

The following were made first lieutenants: Company A, Eugene H. Sleeper of Boston; Company E, Samuel Cabot of Boston; Company H, Albert P. Hollowell of Stoughton; Company M, William I. Fearing of Boston, and Company D, Sinclair Kennedy of Boston.

Second lieutenants named were: Company L, Harold G. Sears, Boston; Company D, F. S. Blake, Boston; Company F, Frederick D. Webster, Boston, and Company M, Walter A. Powers.

These were made sergeants: Company A, A. J. W. Hall, Roxbury; Company K, Sparkman Shaw, Jr., Boston; Company D, H. W. Clark, Boston; Company E, G. G. Watt, Roxbury; Company G, R. W. Peppet, Worcester; Company F, S. H. Brooks, Wakefield; Company G, H. B. Driver, Boston; Company F, J. S. Howe, Boston; Company H, G. A. Dolsey, Boston; Company I, Seth Hayward, Gardner; Company L, Ellerton James, Boston; Company K, A. L. Daniels, Boston; Company I, Donald M. Parsons, Cambridge, A. F. Breed, Boston, and Company M, Christian Petterson, Alston.

The corporals are: Company A, W. E. Hocking, Cambridge; Company A, Joseph H. Dean, Taunton, and Company E, Townsend Whalen, Boston.

SURELY THE KING OF ALL REMEDIES

A Glowing Testimonial Given for Plant Juice by a Well Known Boston Lady.

Plant Juice is the greatest herbal stomach remedy known. It is mild, yet a speedy corrective for derangements of the stomach, liver, kidneys and blood. Stomach disorder is the heritage of Americans and is the cause of the symptoms so prevalent in all the larger cities. The office man, who leads a sedentary life, is constipated, the housewife has backache, headache, is blue, nervous and discouraged, the husband is full of rheumatism and pains; his food ferments, causing gas which in turn presses under the heart, causing palpitation. Few people take the pains to go to the seat of the trouble—the stomach—but treat the symptoms.

Since Plant Juice has been introduced in this city scores of well known people have testified to the benefits they have received. Recently Mrs. Annie Bryant, who lives at No. 4 Lincoln Park, a well known lady, who has lots of friends in this city, having been born and raised here, said:

"For the past 12 years I have been troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia, and nothing I ate did me any good, but would ferment in my stomach and cause gas to form there. I suffered agony after eating, was so nervous and restless I could not get any sleep at night, and would get up in the morning just as tired out as if I had never been to bed. I was constipated, my liver was also affected, which made me very dizzy at times, and turned my complexion a very sallow color; I was simply in misery all the time from the pain I suffered, and was told that I had ulcers of the stomach and would have to go under an operation. This I would not do as my nerves were in such bad shape I could never stand it. Finally I read of Plant Juice and began to take it, as a last resort. Now I can say publicly, for the benefit of other sufferers, that I am a well woman today—completely cured by Plant Juice. I cannot say enough in praise of this great medicine."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Drug Department of the Houghton & Dutton Store, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

GUGGENHEIM SUIT REVEALS IMMENSE PROFITS IN COPPER

New York, June 22—Facts setting forth the magnitude of profits in copper were introduced in the trial of the famous $[illegible] smelting suit before Supreme Court Justice Cal[illegible] at Mineola.

It was brought out in direct examination of [illegible] that the Guggenheims were able to [illegible] thousands of tons of rock assaying [illegible] per cent. copper, by [illegible] smelting charges [illegible] cents a pound.

It was brought out that the Guggenheims had been able to [illegible] by reason of the low freight rates [illegible] in January, 1913, to [illegible] refined copper to the Pacific coast [illegible] which heretofore was [illegible] they would do [illegible] that year.

When suggested in cross-examination by Attorneys A. J. World's Series Glove a Mascot to George Foster

By HERMAN NICKERSON.

BEFORE yesterday's game George Foster, who let the Yankees down without the semblance of a hit, was talking to the ... Louse and declared he was going out to win a game for the Champions.

He took his World's Series glove out with him and "Bill" Carrigan went behind the bat.

Foster usually pitches to Thomas but at his request "Bill" caught the game and a good one it was.

"A man has to be lucky to get such a record," remarked George, modestly, after the game. "I haven't been going any too well this season, and this game will help a lot."

Crimson Big 4 Champ

Open Season on Mahan

For Harvard, as for Yale and a majority of the other college baseball teams, the season is over. At least insofar as the big four is concerned the Crimson holds the title. For the college title she disputes a claim along with Tufts and one or two other teams.

The Crimson team which has lined Mit Bell [illegible] at this year was one of the strongest that ever represented the sport on across the Charles and was [illegible] material as was shown on several occasions Harvard had three pitchers all of whom were good enough to go out and win single classic games.

This fact was [illegible] in the Yale games when the Crimson gave to the [illegible] an inexperienced and [illegible] were forced to take up the [illegible] of the most important contests of the year.

"MITCH" A SUCCESS.

Dolnowski [illegible] had [illegible] he [illegible] Fred Mitchell would have [illegible] the Crimson team. The [illegible] of [illegible] he would [illegible] Head Coach Fred Mitchell would have [illegible] the Harvard team this season [illegible] but little [illegible] that Mitchell will return to [illegible] next season.

The open season for the services of Fred Mahan is over, and [illegible] time now [illegible] announcement can be expected that Manager [illegible] secured with [illegible] to [illegible] other The Crimson [illegible] has never stated his intentions [illegible] concerning [illegible] for a short time it was [illegible] that he is going to [illegible] it's to [illegible] in either league.

AFTER MAHAN.

At the present time the Braves, Yankees and Tigers stand exceptional chances of acquiring the services Mahan isn't a [illegible] pitcher, but to [illegible] an [illegible] prospect as any major league team [illegible]. In addition to knowing [illegible] pitch he knows how [illegible] does not hurt. With such attributes to should prove a main [illegible] while [illegible] team.

As [illegible] from Mahan and Harte, the pitchers, the Crimson [illegible] a young [illegible] one of the [illegible] young ball players [illegible] has been in years. Hi [illegible] Coolidge, the youth who played [illegible] center field. No less a judge than Fred Mitchell declared that Coolidge was one of the finest outfielders he had ever seen in action. Some big league team could use him.

In Cambridge there is much opposition to Tufts as a result of the happenings at the recent Harvard-Tufts game. The Crimson supporters claim that the Tuftonians criticized the work of Umpire White without reason. They claim that [illegible] would be caused by [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

No. 2 "The Camp-Fire Girl"

By NELL BRINKLEY

SHE tramps the pine woods and the hills in knickerbockers and shirt waist, her waist free of corseting and her limbs of shapely proportions. She is the pride of her shoulder, and never missing man. Somewhere in the deep woods she buries Trouble in a hollow tree and snatches Laughter from the dancing star of a stream in the sun, and a wild rose for her cheeks from under a mossy log. Sing the day of the girl when she can go straight to the heart of things with a body both modest and unconscious.—NELL BRINKLEY.

Good Housekeeping Recipes

Good food properly cooked goes far toward insuring health and long years. As much depends on the cooking, however, as on the food itself. The following recipes have been tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute, conducted by GOOD HOUSEKEEPING, and are republished here by special arrangement with that publication, the Nation's Greatest Home Magazine.

All measurements are level, standard half-pint measuring cups, tablespoons, and teaspoons being used. Sixteen level tablespoonfuls equal a half-pint. Quantities are sufficient for six people unless otherwise stated. Flour is sifted once before measuring.

Very Effective Method for Banishing Hairs

(Modes of Today)

At very little cost any woman can rid her face of hairy growths if she will use the delatone treatment. This is made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. This paste is spread upon the hairy surface for 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed, when every trace of hair will have vanished. No harm results from this treatment, but care should be used to buy real delatone.—Advertisement

Yes, sir, that's the way with corns when Pierce's Corn Plasters get after them.

Why, you can have your feet just as smooth as your hand if you'll stick a Pierce's Corn Plaster after each corn. Pierce's Plasters are the original corn plaster, just as they are the best right now. Many imitations, but none quite so good as Pierce's Plasters. Or send 25c. for a package by mail. Pierce's Plasters are being sold by druggists everywhere. We have been making them for 50 years. I am a member of the Committee on Commerce which has under consideration the bill to create a Department of Commerce. I have no information that was not given before the committee, as to the present attitude in said section also, the article on civil service reform. But as a member of the committee I am not critic ising its action.

I am against the proposition to give the Postmaster-General the power that Section 7, in its present form, would confer upon him. Possibly the section could be rewritten and modified so as not to be objectionable.

COME TO A LECTURE ON "PREPAREDNESS, PEACE AND LOYALTY IN RELATION TO CHRIST," by Rev. ALBERT ORNY, PASTOR OF PLAINFIELD, N. J., CHURCH, THIS EVENING, 7:45 P. M

MOTHER OF GIRL THIEF KILLS HERSELF

Pawtucket, R. I., June 22.—Mrs. Elizabeth E. Nuttall, whose seventeen-year-old daughter was yesterday held for the grand jury for stealing from dwelling houses, committed suicide today at her home in North Union street.

The body of the woman, who was forty-five years old, was found fully dressed in her bedroom, with one end of a gas tube, which was connected with an open gas jet, in her mouth.

On Tuesday night the police arrested Jennie Nuttall, daughter of Anthony and Elizabeth Nuttall, on the charge of entering three dwelling houses and stealing jewelry valued at $220. They believe that the girl, with a youth of about the same age, has been committing a number of petty thefts which have annoyed police and householders since last February. The young man's name was not given out, but it is understood he will be arrested shortly.

The girl was arraigned before Judge Tuck yesterday and pleaded guilty on three counts. Being unable to furnish bail she was sent to the Providence County jail.

Mrs. Nuttall, according to the police, declared that she could not face the world after this disgrace, and her suicide followed.

NO PARTY LINES IN WAR UPON 'PRESS GAG'

By International News Service.

Washington, June 22.—A poll of the Senate today showed that debate on Section 7, the "press gag" clause of the postoffice appropriation bill, would proceed without regard to party lines.

It can be predicted that a strong Democratic minority will unite with the Republicans in favoring the retention of Senator Ashurst of Arizona, to strike the objectionable clause from the bill.

The eleventh hour campaign of publicity carried on against Postmaster-General Burleson's attempt to shackle the press has convinced Democrats that it would be unwise to saddle the Wilson administration with criticism by allowing Section 7 to remain in the bill.

CLUB FOR POLITICIANS.

The paragraph of the postoffice bill seeks to return to the Postmaster-General arbitrary power to route magazines and newspapers by mail or freight, which under the present routings would mean financial ruin for the publications discriminated against, and would be a powerful club in the hands of politicians.

The paragraph was taken away from the Postoffice Department by Congress in 1912.

Here are some of the opinions voiced by prominent Senators:

SENATOR TOWNSEND of Michigan.

I am a member of the Postoffice Committee which put Section 7 in the postoffice bill. Since then I have received information that was not then before the committee, and my present attitude is that the section should be stricken out. But as a member of the committee I am not criticizing its action.

SENATOR WORKS of California:

I am against the proposition to give the Postmaster-General the power that Section 7, in its present form, would confer upon him. Possibly the section could be rewritten and modified so as not to be so bad.

SENATOR MEYERS of Montana:

I certainly am in favor of striking out Section 7, and have so announced my position.

We Must Now Do Our Duty in Mexico

THE expected has happened.

A body of our soldiers has been attacked by soldiers of Carranza.

The attack was unprovoked. It was a surprise. It was made by men armed with machine guns and the equipment of regular troops, and not by roving bandits.

A number of our soldiers are dead as the result of this treachery.

This is no time for denunciation.

There is no more time now for anything but the businesslike speech which we Americans know how to use when we mean business and are in deadly earnest.

The only procedure now possible is a declaration of war by Congress, the immediate dispatch of all available military and naval forces to Mexico and the conquest of Mexico and its thorough and complete rehabilitation under our protection and guidance.

The task is a huge one.

It will cost many millions of dollars. Many men also must die.

But we have never been a people who counted cost when our duty was absolutely clear.

The task will be performed.

A new day is about to dawn upon Mexico.

Who Is Independent? Nobody

WE all have our moments of imagining ourselves INDEPENDENT characters. We take pride in our independence and are never so foolish as when trying to prove how independent we are.

Every man, to begin with, is born absolutely at the mercy of his ancestry. You have not a thing in you, and you never will have a thing in you, that you did not inherit from some one of the thousands and thousands of ancestors, all of whom are dimly stored away in your complex make-up.

You may develop marvellously the faculties which they gave you.

But you ARE DEPENDENT on those who brought you into the world, and upon those back of them.

The Kaffir, sober, industrious, honest, with all the virtues rolled up within him, has not a fragment of one chance in ten thousand billions of equalling the achievements of a tenth-rate white man whose ancestral start was better.

After birth you start with dependence on your ancestors, and after youth you are dependent on your education.

Facts are your tools, and you can't work without them.

If your mind has the right formation, if your brain is provided with the deep convolutions, and good luck has supplied you with a good education in youth, the whole thing is dependent on your health—on your liver, your stomach, or some other part of your internal machinery.

Very often your success is dependent on your temper and tact. These depend on your digestion. Digestion, of course, depends on your cook, and the cook's attention to business may depend on the politeness of the policeman in front of the house.

You may FEEL absolutely independent and THINK you are independent, when as a matter of fact you are miserably dependent on the mood of the policeman who has snubbed the lady who cooks your food.

Once-Overs

Most of the trouble between husband and wife arises from the refusal of one to consider matters from the viewpoint of the other.

One is likely to think that in case of a disagreement the other must necessarily be wrong.

Each should give the other credit for good, common sense—a person who has opinions and opinions which deserve consideration.

Because a man is physically stronger than his wife it does not follow that his opinions are better than hers.

But then there are some men who do not credit any woman with the foresight and mental acumen which they suppose to be masculine traits.

Such men should study the lives of the big successful men and learn that most of them were aided in their most successful undertakings by their wives.

Sun Itself Visible to Earth's Inhabitants

Man Who Thinks He Sees Only Rays of Light from Great Luminary Is Mistaken — How Displacement by Motion Affects Heavenly Bodies

By Garrett P. Serviss

"I recently heard a lady made that we never see the sun, for only its light. Because it has passed from one direct sight before the light has reached us. Please make this correction for it is true, it will be of some interest to the readers of the AMERICAN to be told that they have never seen the sun."—J. C. T.

It is true that light which leaves the sun at any particular instant does not reach the earth until after the lapse of about eight and one-third minutes, because it has 92,600,000 miles to go and cannot travel faster than 186,000 miles per second, while, in the meantime, the rotation of the earth has carried the observer more than two degrees eastward, causing the sun to appear to have moved the same angular distance toward the west.

But this does not mean, as many seem to think, that the sun has been displaced westwardly 180 degrees out of the direct line of sight. It is displaced, but in the other direction, and the measure of the displacement is the ratio of the rotational speed of the earth to the speed of light.

In one second the light advances 186,000 miles toward the observer, and in the same second the observer (if he is on the equator and the time is about noon) is carried by the earth's rotation nearly 2.7ths of a mile at right angles to the line of sight, making the ratio above mentioned about 1 to 69,000, which turned into angular measure equals less than 1-3 of a second of arc, or 1-4700ths of the sun's angular diameter. Away from the equator, in either direction, the effect is still smaller.

Displacement of Sun Too Little to Have Any Noticeable Effect

It is only by this almost inappreciable amount that the sun is displaced by the rotational motion of the earth. It is, however, displaced more than sixty-five times as much as in the same direction by the revolution of the earth in its orbit, whose speed is to the speed of light as 1 to 10,000. But even this displacement amounts to only about 20½ seconds of arc, or say 1-93rd of the sun's angular diameter.

Thus the displacement, even at its maximum, caused by the rotation and the revolution of the earth combined, amounts to so little that it cannot be said that we do not see the sun in its actual place or direction.

Nevertheless, this displacement of the heavenly bodies, which is known as "aberration," and especially that resulting from the earth's revolution around the sun, is of importance in astronomical calculations, having always to be allowed for, and it has a very curious effect upon the stars. It causes them to appear to describe, once a year, little orbits, varying in form, from straight lines for stars situated on the ecliptic to perfect circles for those situated at the poles of the ecliptic.

Between the ecliptic and the poles the apparent orbits are ellipses, whose eccentricity decreases in proportion as they are farther from the ecliptic. The greatest diameter, or length, of these aberrational orbits is 41 seconds of arc. The ecliptic stars simply move back and forth in straight lines 41 seconds long, parallel to the plane of the ecliptic; those between the ecliptic and the poles revolve in ellipses whose major axes measure 41 seconds, while the polar stars revolve in circles 41 seconds in diameter.

It is only the astronomer who is aware that all the stars thus resemble whirling servishes bearing torches, because only delicate astronomical observations reveal the fact. In truth, astronomy is full of these arcana, or hidden secrets, which surprise the uninitiated.

They are the delicacies of the science, only known to and fully enjoyed by those who attend the intellectual banquets which every science offers to its genuine votaries. Yet the public might have its share, if it would, for it is excluded only by its own lack of interest—or of taste.

When you have learned the size and distance of the sun, planets and stars, the names of the constellations, and a hundred other facts of that kind, you are simply on the threshold of the banqueting hall of astronomy. But the astronomer feels that even he is merely partaking of a Barmecide's feast in comparison with the infinite intellectual joys which the universe mockingly offers him! Still he does, now and then, get a taste, or a whiff, from the celestial repast, at which sit the gods—or the angels.

Aberration of Stars Simply a Case of Relativity of Motion.

Perhaps some readers would be glad to see an explanation of the aberration of the stars. It is a very simple case of the relativity of motion. This may be inferred from what was said at the beginning concerning the displacement of the sun by the motion of the earth. Its angular amount is the same for the stars, since in both cases the velocity of light is combined with the earth's motion.

I know no better illustration of the principle than that which was suggested by the French astronomer Lalande a hundred years ago, and which has done service ever since. Suppose rain is falling vertically on a calm day. If you stand still the drops strike on the top of your head, but if you run forward they seem to fall slopingly toward you, and strike you in the face.

Just so the waves of light appear to be shifted in direction if the observer moves rapidly across their line of advance, and the luminous object from which they come seems to be displaced to a point ahead of its real position.

Tee Hee!

By William F. Kirk

He says us girls is all alike—
He says he oughta know.
He says he usta hope he'd strike
An earnest girl or so.
He says the girls ain't sensible
The way they usta be.
"Here's one old bach they'll never catch!"
That's what he says. Tee hee!

He called me on the 'phone today
And said he had a date
To take a fig in a matinee
Unless he got there late.
He's always full of wit like that—
He makes some hit with me.
The other men all seem so flat
Why can't they laugh? Tee hee!

I guess that if I said the word
He'd marry me all right.
I always said I'd never wed
A gent that wasn't bright.
And listen, Mac, if some fine day
You get a line from me
That me and him has run away,
Don't be surprised. Tee hee!

The Country's Duty to Its Volunteers

OUR insufficient, unfair, foolish volunteer military system leaves to the volunteers all the sacrifice and to the rest of us nearly all the benefits of that sacrifice.

The militia are now called by the government to defend the interests of the country. They are obliged to leave their families and their business to undergo certain hardship and to risk disease, maiming and death.

No money payments can compensate or reward them for their sacrifices, but the least which those of us who stay at home can do to equalize the burden and to minimize the sacrifice is to pay the wages of the men who are going to the front. The government should do this without delay and without stint.

In-Shoots

In spite of what novelists say, in real life a young fellow stands no show beside the white-haired old sport with a large wad.

Of course the low-necked gown always looks better on the other man's wife.

A man may be polite to the bartender and still not be very agreeable about home.

Unless you are a lawyer, it is better not to take up the fight of a woman who is seeking a divorce.

The chap who waits to find the name of his future wife on a cold storage egg is missing a lot of opportunities.

When some fellows begin to brag about their ancestors we rejoice that the good old people are sleeping too soundly to hear it.

When a poet's inspiration has been rejected he always suspects that the editor's head must be stuffed with baked beans.

We never feel regret at being unable to take advantage of undertakers' bargain days.

A man without brains enough to be janitor for a peanut stand can have a swelled head just the same.

A woman may be fond of babies and yet not be keen about raising a family of thirteen.

Love and Luck

Next Sunday's Boston AMERICAN tells the story of an artist who thought that he had lost everything worth while in life. Then came fortune and now he has a beautiful bride and $10,000,000. The bride, by the way, is a Boston girl, and her beauty is often the subject of the sketches of the artist husband.
